THE most interesting things to be found in a school are the personages of which it is composed. Since we are interested primarily in persons, and only secondarily in what they do, the major part of this volume consists of the likenesses of persons, both individually and collectively. For the same reason we include herein only a few literary productions that will be able to withstand the "fiery darts" of its critics. We frankly confess that an attempt has been made to tell the whole truth, but beyond this we waive responsibility and admit that there may be some exaggeration in both photographs and language. We now desire to offer a word of thanks to those who so willingly co-operated in compiling this annual. Take it and keep it. But we hope that once in a while you will remove it from the shelf, brush the dust from its covers, and by turning its pages be able to live again the good old days spent at T. C.

President's Message

TREVECCA COLLEGE is a child of providence," was a much used expression of the founder of this institution. He often said that he never intended to start a college, or a school of any kind, but that the Lord thrust it upon him. Let us then as members of the faculty, and as a student body, never forget the divine call of the founder of this institution. We should always remember that we are not dealing with a mere human organization, but with that which God has given to the present generation.

Trevecca College has passed through several crises: The first was the loss of its founder just at the time it was making an important change in location. The second and third were due to the crushing weight of debt made by the purchase of the present location and the erection of the two new brick buildings. From all of these Trevecca has come out safely. Very few if any like institutions are able to point to a better record than that of your school. You have a heritage which is not to be hoarded but is to be given posterity in a better condition than that in which you receive it.

The success of the school in the future largely depends upon the present student body; a school is sold to the public by its student body. You are to be samples of its finished product. There are other things however which will help Trevecca to be successful. Its location alone promises great things in the future; it is acknowledged by many that the south-land is the coming section of the United States. With her debts all arranged for, with all departments standardized, and with prospects for a good endowment, it is possible for Trevecca to train her students in such a way that they will be able to compete with students from larger schools.

As students you should be thankful for the extraordinary circumstances of your life. Your future success is made possible by the training you are now receiving, but in the midst of success do not lose sight of the vision that your schools has for you. Let nothing turn you from the Holy purpose which was in the mind of God when he inspired the founder to start such an institution. Keep before you the same purpose as that which was held by those who have labored, suffered, sacrificed, and toiled in the heat of the day in order that there might be a school which would exalt God before creed, and would place experimental salvation above dogma. Ever keep in mind that posterity is depending on you to be true to the heavenly vision you received while here. Keep an eye single to His glory. He alone is to receive all your strength, all of your thoughts, and all your heart's deepest affections. Let skeptics doubt, agnostics question, infidels throw their sarcastic slurs, and modernists make fun of your belief in a personal God, but ever be true to Him who loved you with an unspeakable love. Go through the world in poverty if needs be that you may be rich in the Christian graces. Count your life's profits only by the way you have enriched others. Never call your life a success only as it is measured by the souls you have won for Him and by the way you have encouraged God's own in the way of life. Remember that the church and faculty have invested their time, talent, and treasure in you and that they look for their dividends only as you invest them in others

R. J. Kelly, Vice-President

Colonel R. J. Kelly, Vice-President and Financial Director, is also head of the Department of Mathematics. Colonel Kelly holds the B.S. degree from Ruskin-Cave College, the M.A. degree from Vanderbilt University, and has completed most of the work for the Ph.D. degree at Peabody College. Beginning in the public schools of Mississippi when a mere lad, he climbed, step by step, to a place in the front ranks of school men. For years he was associated with Dr. R. E. Smith in the management of Ruskin-Cave College. Later he was officially connected with some of the leading Methodist schools in the South. He has filled practically every official position connected with a college. And last, but not least, he is entirely free from any taint of "higher criticism" or "evolution." In marked contrast, his students are established and "built up in their most holy faith." Under his wise management the financial condition of the college has been much improved. He seems to have the rare ability to make a small amount of money go a long way.

“Home”

What greater word than “Home” could be called to our memory. Our minds fail to comprehend the greatness, or the sweetness of this word. It has truly been said, “the first sure symptom of a mind in health is rest at heart and pleasure at home.” Thousands have left it determined to forget it, and face life's problems alone, but a native love has remained to reveal their mistake. How sad it is to part with home and assume the responsibilities of an individual life.

Our homes may have been located on one of nature's wonder sports but that is not the thing which made them great. Living there is what made the place great. It was at home that we learned our first lessons of obedience, respect, self-restraint, loyalty, and charity, and when we have failed to give heed to those precepts our characters have been marred. Our mother's prayers have followed our pathway like our shadows follow us. The moral lessons that we learned while hanging to her apron strings have carried us safely through the struggle while thousands of others have been swept into the tide of sin by the evil influence of their environment. The fact that our homes were places of high morals and ideals, places of co-operation, places of love and Christian teaching made them wonderful places in which to live.

Our nation has derived all its powers from the American home. If our homes fail to produce real, true, honest citizens our nation is doomed. Let us, therefore, as an American nation strive with zeal and honest toil to keep our homes on the high plains of American principles and standards.

CRANFORD BURNS.

College Class Will

PREAMBLE:

We, the Senior College Class, of the State of Achievement, County of Liberty, and of the Campus of Trevecca, being of sound, disposing, and intellectually trained minds, do hereby make, publish, and declare this to be our last Will and Testament, hereby revoking all former Wills by us made, at any time, or any codicil to any Will by us made at any time.

BEQUESTS:

First: We give and bequeath to our honored faculty the inalienable right to make, institute, revise, set aside, suspend or otherwise enforce any and all rules and enactments by them deemed necessary for the guidance, protection and disciplining of our successors, assigns, and heirs of training forever.

Second: We and each of us severally and jointly do give and bequeath our holdings, personal or class belongings of any nature whatsoever, which we now have or hold, whether by purchase, inheritance, habits of study or borrowing, at the time of our graduation in the year of our Lord, Nineteen Hundred Twenty-nine, and in the sixth month of the aforesaid year, to wit:

(a) Reed Pierce does hereby give and bequeath to one Clyde Morris his "Reserved Disposition."

(b) Elizabeth Hardy gives and bequeaths to Emma Lee Brown her queenly poise and elastic step.

(c) Edward Hardy gives and bequeaths to Clarence Lee Smith his valued interest in the Philomathean Literary Society.

(d) Leslie Claude Poe gives and bequeaths to Russell Smith his sonorous voice, which may be used economically, either for high tenor singing or in persuading the Mississippi herd of swine to desist from spending undue time in the Delta at the close of each "mast" day.

(e) Sarah Robinson gives and bequeaths to Jessie Taylor her ability to sleep through an entire history class.

(f) Genevieve "Jinks" Boughton gives and bequeaths to Maggie Lou English her precision and dignity, and as well, the old family lipstick, which has been in constant use during her stay at Trevecca.

(g) Virginia "Sis" Hines gives and bequeaths to the Glee Club her ability to "pitch" "My Old Kentucky Home," and her disposition to deposit with the Lost and Found Department any misplaced article.

(h) Charles F. Pegram gives and bequeaths to Durrell Shelton his "full line" of poetic bombast, and his power to make strangers feel welcome and to see that "everybody's looked after."

(i) Beatrice Denslow gives and bequeaths to Johanna Koenen her ability to be seen and not heard, and her "sight-singing" accomplishments to Lucille Gibson.

(j) Mrs. Myrtle Barney gives and bequeaths to Perry Smith her "red-headed disposition."

(k) Lucille Frost gives and bequeaths to Araballa Balla her "bad" heart, "tangled nerves" on examinations and test days, as well as her full and unhampered ability to vamp the boys; all of which would be excess baggage en route to India.

(l) Lillie Sue Redford gives and bequeaths to Juanita Jamerson her "queenly pace, and mournful face."

(m) Gaior Foskey gives and bequeaths to Preston Pirtle his philosophical turn of mind.

(n) Elizabeth Roby gives and bequeaths to Ruby Shaw her "magnetic personality" and "practical psychology."

(o) Linus Jackson gives and bequeaths to Susie Allen her "million dollar" smile.

EXECUTOR:

We, and each of us, concurring and agreeing, do hereby nominate and appoint Dean Alexander Benjamin Mackey, as executor of this our last Will and Testament. All claims for transcript, caps and gowns (diploma charges included) should be presented to him.

Witness our hands and seal this the day of graduation.

(Signed) SENIOR CLASS, JUNIOR COLLEGE.

The School of Religion

THE School of Religion is the department in Trevecca College which trains Christian workers, and serves as a theological seminary for the church. Theology comes from two Greek words meaning "God" and "discourse." It follows then, that theology is a discourse on God and divine things. This science teaches the Evidences, Doctrines, Morals, and Institutions of Christianity. It teaches the existence, character and attributes of God, His laws and government, the doctrines we are to believe, and the duties we are to practice. It reveals the divine will regarding our actions, present existence and future destiny. In reference to its source: It is distinguished as "natural" and "revealed" theology. The former relating to the knowledge of God from His works by the light of nature and reason; the latter sets forth the doctrines of the Holy Scriptures which were revealed to holy men who were inspired to write them. Our School of Religion seeks to teach the whole extent of religious science as it is divided into its four classes, namely: History of Christian doctrine, Interpretation of the Scriptures, a systematic arrangement of the great truths of religion and the practice of its precepts. To this end courses and teachers are provided to meet the needs of our growing church.

We offer courses under four divisions, A, B, C, and D. Courses A and D meet the requirements for ordination. A can be completed with three years of residence work, and D is offered by correspondence. B is a well organized course which requires four years' residence work, but on completion of this course the students are awarded diplomas of graduation from both the accredited High School and the Theological Department. Course C is also a combination course, but one that requires three years of residence work in advance of the High School graduation, and meets the requirements for graduation from the Junior College and also from the School of Religion with a Bachelor of Theology degree. The advantages of these courses make possible the saving of several hundred dollars and additional years of work to students whose time and means are limited.

Professors in this department, by their ripe scholarship, teaching experience and the baptism with the Holy Spirit are second to none in training soul-winners for their life's work. Our students have gone everywhere preaching the gospel until—"The Sun Never Sets on Trevecca Students."

Senior Class Poem

*Dear Senior Class of '29,
We now four years have anchored been
Within this harbor so secure,
But we today must "Farewell," say
To all we love, and go our way.*

*'Tis true as on life's sea we go,
Our vessels frail so oft will meet
Both dashing waves and rushing winds,
But these our barques will not beset,
If on the goal our eyes are set.*

*So, courage take my dearest friends,
While rowing o'er the treach'ous deep
And fear not men nor demons bold
For Christ our Risen Lord is near
To bless, to comfort, and to cheer.*

*The throbbing pains which we shall feel;
The aching heart that we shall know;
The binding tears that'll dim our eyes;
Will fade away to be no more
When safe we anchor on that shore.*

*So set your sails, and onward steer,
And faithful, loyal, firm, and true
Strive through the future years to be,
Till in that hav'n fair we meet,
And cast our sheaves at Jesus' feet.*

HIS WILL

My will, dear Lord, from Thine doth run
 Too oft a different way;
 'Tis hard to say, "Thy will be done,"
 In every darkened day.
 My heart grows chill to see Thy will Turn all life's gold to gray.

My will is set to gather flowers;
 Thine blights them in my hand;
 Mine reaches for life's sunny hours,
 Thine leads through shadowland;
 And all my days go on in ways
 I cannot understand.

Yet more and more this truth doth shine
 From failure and from loss,
 Mine reaches in Heaven and earth are mine;
 Doth thereby make its cross,
 Thine upright will cuts straight and still
 Through pride and dream and dross.

But if, in parallel to Thine,
 My will doth meekly run
 All things in Heaven and earth are mine;
 My will is crossed by none,
 Thou art in me, and I in Thee;
 Thy will—and mine—are done.

TREVCCA

Out of the happy golden past
 A whisper comes to me,
 'Tis a voice of Holy Gladness,
 'Tis an echo from T. C.

O'er the years that are passed and gone
 My saddened heart rejoices
 For in my dreamy reverie
 I hear familiar voices.

They come like the dawn of the morning,
 And carry me back o'er the years,
 Where each shared a part of my gladness,
 And each sympathized in my tears.

No newly friends the royal
 Can the memory of these erase,
 For deep in my heart each student
 Fills a separate and sacred place.

But since I'm only dreaming
 My heart breathes out a sigh
 For the years have come like a robber
 And broken each sacred tie.

Tho' each sacred tie is broken
 And each dear friend is gone,
 The memory of T. C. lingers
 To gladden my life along.

WILLIE FLATT

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE AT TREVECCA

Mrs. Odell has come to Trevecca to stay,
 To watch us boys and girls all thru the day,
 To show us girls just how to dust and sweep
 And not to leave our clothes all in a heap.
 And all us kids, when our lessons are done
 We like to have a little fun;
 But we have to watch to see whose about
 'Cause Mrs. Odell'll get you if you don't watch out.

We musn't never run along the hall
 Or holler or whistle anywhere at all.
 We must always be so cultured and refined
 And to our enemies be so sweet and kind.
 We must bow our head and sing the song
 Or else they say we're sure to go dead wrong.
 We sure do be careful and watch what we're about,
 'Cause Mrs. Odell'll get us if we don't watch
 out.

We must wear our dress four inches below the knee
 And be ladies and gentlemen right up to T.
 We must watch our conversation in the dining room
 The way in which our food we anxiously consume,
 On social nights we must be careful of our fun.
 All dark corners and shady places we must shun;
 But we must always be nice and never pout
 When Mrs. Odell gets us when we didn't watch out.

But with all its petty trials and tests
 And the many do's and dont's we so detest.
 We love T. C. with all our heart and soul
 And when the last bell sounds so dole
 There'll be many a sad and heavy heart
 And many eyes with tears will smart.
 For Mrs. Odell we'll give a lively shout
 If she did get us when we didn't watch out.

MARION JOHNSON.

TREVCCA'S NEED

Yea! since the need is great,
 Leave off that useless weed,
 What honest heart can follow this,
 And see Trevecca's need?

But ere ye fill your pipe,
 Look up and ask your king,
 If he would have you sign a pledge,
 And just how much to bring.

Who says 'tis not the best
 To bore the people so,
 And press their purse in such a dearth:
 "We'll let Trevecca go."

Nay! rich and poor be wise,
 We have a prize at stake,
 Let all awake from beds of ease,
 For dear Trevecca's sake.

Each in His Own Tongue

A Fire-mirt and a planet,
 A crystal and a cell,
 A jellyfish and a saurian,
 And caves where the cave-men dwell;
 Then a sense of law and beauty,
 And a face turned from the clod—
 Some call it evolution,
 And others call it God.

A haze on the far horizon,
 The infinite, tender sky,
 The ripe rich tint of the cornfield,
 And the wild geese sailing high—
 And all over upland and lowland,
 The charm of the golden-rod—
 Some of us call it Autumn
 And others call it God

Like tides on a crescent sea-beach,
 When the moon is new and thin,
 Into our hearts high yearnings
 Come welling and surging in—
 Come from the mystic ocean,
 Whose rim no foot has trod,
 Some of us call it longing
 And others call it God.

A picket frozen on duty,
 A mother starved for her brood,
 Socrates drinking the hemlock,
 And Jesus on the road;
 And millions who, humble, and nameless,
 The straight, hard pathway plod—
 Some call it consecration,
 And others call it God.

Ladies' Auxiliary Association

"And when a lady's in the case you know all other things give place."

Trevecca teachers and students are ready to acknowledge the truth of the above quotation. In October of this year a group of representative women of the local churches met at the college and organized what they have later called "The Trevecca Improvement League." Little was thought of it at the time but things began to happen about the place right away. Soon a man was busy in the front hall with ladder, brushes, and other business-like equipment and shortly the walls were covered with fresh cheerful paper. Next, the old linoleum was taken up and an excellent new battleship linoleum took its place; new shades have appeared at the parlor windows, and interest is keen to see what will happen next. We believe that this organization is well named, and with this group of business-like women in charge of things we feel that the coming months will prove profitable ones for Trevecca.

Jokes

CAN YOU IMAGINE—FACULTY

Dr. Hardy singing a solo?
Colonel Kelly wearing "loud socks"?
Mr. Mackey using slang?
Miss Basford in love?
Miss Harris getting married?
Mr. Shute going through a class period without talking about Sam?
Mother Odell leading a college yell?
Mr. Floyd sitting still five minutes?
Brother Wise wearing Hendley's shoe?

CAN YOU IMAGINE—STUDENTS

Educator saying, "I don't know"?
Sue Redford and Clarence Smith agreeing on women's rights?
Elizabeth Roby getting to class on time?
Pegram without his standing collar?
Mr. and Mrs. Foskey having a family row?
Lucile Frost vamping the boys?
"Jinks" and "Tink" staying in their rooms when rules are suspended?
T. C. students having socials twice a week?

Prof. Hurd: "What are you late for?"
Elizabeth Roby (Sleepily): "Er-r-r class I suppose."

Prof. Mackey: "Are you taking a Theological course?"
Tenny: "No, I'm studying for the ministry."

Russell Smith (at a basketball game): "O, Cindy, look at Conley, he will soon be our best man."
Cindy: "O-o-h this is so sudden."

Mrs. Johnson: "May we serve you another helping?"
Willie Flatt: "Why, I believe you may. That food seems to be very nutritious, it fairly teems with pantomines."

Mrs. Ross (in physics class): "A transparent object is one that you can see through. Now name something that is transparent."
Ruth Taylor: "A doughnut."

Professor Shute (to the Greek class): "You may go, but go very quietly so you won't wake those sleeping in the library."

CHARACTERISTIC SAYINGS OF FACULTY

Dr. Hardy: "If you go off and misrepresent what I said the Buggar Man will get you."

Shute: "You are crazy with the heat."

Mackey: "Take a pencil and paper and make ter yourself a grade."

Hurd: "You can't pull history out of the air."

* * *

Mrs. Hurd: "Does that mean anything to you?"

Puntney: "Robert, wake up, you ought not do me that way."

Mr. Floyd: "Read West."

Miss Basford: "Just because it is."

Chapman: "Can't you remember that?"

Mrs. Ross: "Now girls, you must not make so much noise."

Miss Agnew: "Hew many got all the problems for today?"

Bro. Wise: "Well, I'll tell you, I'm just about all in today."

Miss Harris: "You'll have to give me credit for that."

Miss Jernigan: "Eh! Eh! Eh! Eh!"

An old colored man was burning dead grass when Ezra stopped and said: "You are foolish to do that, Uncle Ed, it will make the field as black as you are."

"Don't worry 'bout dat," replied the o'd darkey. "Dat grass will grow out in de spring and be as green as you is."

* * *

Mr. Stunck: "How are you able to satisfy your wife's craving for antiques?"

Dr. Hardy: "I bought her a nineteen seven model flivver."

Prof. Shute (in education class). "I think some of you girls ought to educate yourself to be preachers' wives."

Elizabeth Hardy: "How do we know whose wife we are going to be?"

* * *

Jane Porter: "I must see a doctor."

Thomas Dean: "Why, are you sick?"

Jane: "I must have insomnia, I waked up three times in history yesterday."

* * *

Customer: "Are those doughnuts fresh?"

R. Carr: "I don't know, ma'm, I've only been here a week."

GAS— The Cleanest, Most Reliable and Efficient Source of Heat for—

Refrigeration, Cookery, Water Heating,
Space Heating, Washing, Drying
and Ironing Clothes

Recent inventions and scientific developments in the manufacture of appliances for the utilization of gas in the service of the home now make gas just as up-to-date as radio in the many new services it performs in the household.

Gas is now the most modern agent for refrigerating food, cooking and disposing of garbage, providing instant hot water, insuring comfortable house temperature at all seasons, and for washing, drying, and ironing clothes under home conditions of maximum cleanliness.
