DEDICATION

Trevecca Song

*Many the blessings we hope to be,
As thro' the world we go;
Helping each brother whom we may see
Burdened with sin and woe.*

*"We do things," is our slogan true,
And by this sign we win;
Helping the fellow some good thing do,
Who would have died in sin.*

*Standing firm by the Bible school,
Fighting as soldiers bold;
"Young folk for Christ," is our working rule,
"And to the Church," the fold.*

Chorus

*T-r-e-v-e-c-c-a, Which means a blessing grand,
"Young folk may work for young folk,"
Thro'-out this broad, broad land;
T-r-e-v-e-c-c-a, So may it ever be Blessings to Church and nation, thro' all eternity.*

A. B. MACKEY, A.B., M.A.

We learn from history that great civilizations may contain the elements which cause their own downfall. Knowledge is power, but that power may be used for the good or for the evil. Education is one of the three factors of wealth, and the only one which can be increased. But even that may not recommend education, because we believe that the love of money is the root of all evil. Trevecca College is endeavoring to take evil intentions from the power of knowledge, and greed from the wealth of education. We feel that it is better to sacrifice, even to the shedding of our blood, for a Christian education than to receive wealth and fame from an education which does not have as its first principle the fear of the Lord.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

After "Pushing Back the Horizon" by graduating from high school, a number of young people over the Southeast decided to venture farther by attempting a college career. Thus, they pushed their horizon in a direction different from what it would have been had they chosen other roads.

In September, 1936, Trevecca opened with a Freshman Class of forty-four members.

The first few weeks were filled with thrilling experiences. In October the Seniors gave the Freshmen a reception at Centennial Park, and all the students became better acquainted.

In the same month the class organized with the following officers: Harold Glenn, President; Elizabeth Gray, Vice-President; Angelee Cochran, Secretary; Lonnie Friend, Treasurer; and Professor L. C. Parsons, Sponsor.

Much to our regret, before the year was over several of our number had been forced for various reasons to drop out.

In the following September, part of our group gathered again at Trevecca to continue their preparation for life. We were sorry that some could not return.

As Seniors, we elected Koy Phillips our President and leader for the year.

One Friday evening in October we gave the Freshmen a reception at Centennial Park.

Soon this year will pass, and then will come separation, each member going to his special place of service. Although some of us may never again meet in this life, the memories of the years spent in Trevecca will remain with us. While we shall look back at times, yet our main view will be forward; and, "Pushing Back the Horizon," we shall still strive to reach the desired goal.

WALTER BOSWELL, Historian.

PUSHING BACK THE HORIZON

There flashed across the western hills
 A band of pilgrims, weary but gay,
 Their faces glowing with cheerful light
 As they climbed to the top at the close of the day.
 On reaching the summit they paused to rest,
 And let their eyes wander back o'er the track
 Their feet had trodden since first they set out
 On the journey from which there was no turning back.

Far back on the plain stood the first milestone
 Where happy days ended in the red school
 And gaily and joyfully they entered the higher,
 Ever moving on toward another goal.
 As years passed by they toiled to gain
 A guerdon deserving their labor well done,
 Forgetting the struggles and hardships, and hastening
 Forward to "push back another horizon."

Long years have passed since first they sought
 To live for others in the God-given plan;
 And the once laughing girls and boys
 Are now serious-minded women and men.
 Ever willing and glad to do their part,
 Ready and faithful unto the end,
 Serving the Master with loving and grateful hearts,
 And finding in Him their dearest friend.

FLOSSIE M. CURTIS, Class Poet.

COLLEGE THEOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT

Theology is the oldest study known to man. Adam and Eve were instructed in it by God. He taught them the doctrines of sin, redemption, and eternity. The science of medicine, and philosophy, and the knowledge of literature shall all perish with the world; but man shall increase his knowledge of God and spiritual things throughout eternity.

The mysteries of theology have challenged poets, philosophers, scientists, and statesmen. They have all sought to find her treasures. Theology has been called by someone, "The Queen of Sciences." So it is theology that the preacher must know. His knowledge of fine arts, literature, philosophy, and science will not lead a soul to Christ or nurture it in spiritual things or bridge the river of death. The truths of the Bible alone can do that. The physician must know medicine; the attorney, law; the teacher, pedagogy; and the preacher must be a master of the science of religion.

The church of today needs an educated ministry that is filled with the Holy Spirit and has a passion for the salvation of a lost world. The administration of Trevecca Nazarene College is conscious of this fact and has designed the courses in the School of Theology to meet this need. The School of Theology stresses deep spirituality and thorough scholarship.

MINISTERIAL DEPARTMENT

The Ministerial Department is composed of those students who have not finished high school, but feel that they are called to the Christian ministry and desire some theological training.

The purpose of the department is to qualify those who are enrolled for efficient Christian work. A certificate is given upon the completion of the three-year program outlined to meet the course of study requirements for ordination as set forth in the manual.

The ministerial class is doing a creditable Christian work this year in visiting the churches in or near the city and giving programs which are a spiritual uplift to the people.

CHRISTIAN WORKERS' ASSOCIATION

The Christian Workers' Association of Trevecca Nazarene College was organized for the purpose of the evangelization of the city of Nashville and surrounding territory, and the preparation of its members for practical Christian service.

The members of this organization are those in the institution who have a definite Christian experience and have a desire to participate in Christian service.

Captains are chosen for each of the following departments: The County and the City Workhouses, the T. B. Sanitarium, the General Hospital, the Jail, and the Street Services. Each group captain is responsible for all services in his field.

Each Sunday morning, before the Gospel Bus leaves for Christian work, a half-hour prayer service is participated in by the workers. Each week the gospel is brought to several hundred persons.

Last year eight hundred souls were reported saved. Our goal for this year is "One Thousand for Christ."

SENIOR CLASS POEM

As sunshine is to water,
 And as laughter is to love,
 As winds that blow to bending trees,
 As clouds to stars above,
 So thy spirit, old Trevecca, is to us.

'Tis a spirit firm, impelling,
 Putting purpose in our life,
 With its motto, "On, on, forever!"
 Not contented with the strife.

As one feels the dawn approaching,
 Ere one sees the glorious sun,
 We sense the things that lie beyond
 Which are worthy to be done—
 Unseen, half-dreamed, the waiting tasks in store for us.

'Tis then we answer quickly
 To thy ever-sounding call,
 And, on answering, bless Trevecca
 For the urge that moves us all.

FINE ARTS DEPARTMENT

Someone has said let me write the music of a nation and I will show you the kind of people of which that nation will be composed. No less might be said of a college, for a college may rise or fall according to its ideals set forth in its music. If the music is of the mediocre type, our products will be of that same type; but on the other hand if our music has a wholesome tone, our young people will be of the same type. It is not the person that can take an audience in the heights of ecstasy or to the depths of sympathy, who when they are gone are forgotten; but the one who can play or sing with an understanding that will cause people to think not momentarily but will remain with them as long as all eternity.

Trevecca Nazarene College music department is endeavoring to give the Southeastern Educational Zone something that will not perish with the years, but will brighten as the days go by.

QUARTETTES

The quartettes have done an exceptional piece of work, and have proven some of the most congenial young people on the campus. Not only have they sung their way into the hearts of the Southeastern Educational Zone, but along with their singing they have lived so that the public believes in Trevecca quartettes.

GLEE CLUBS

For the first time in several years, Trevecca has had both the men's and women's glee clubs. The glee clubs have helped on a number of programs, and have been one of the outstanding attractions.

Presenting the
ORGANIZATIONS

NAZARENE YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY

These groups have done a very commendable work during the year. The Young People's Society has encouraged the practice of, and proclaimed, our general slogan, "Deeper and Farther with Christ."

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Missionary Society has endeavored to keep aglow the fervent missionary zeal which characterized Trevecca at its beginning.

THE D A R D A

THE HOLINESS LEAGUE

The Holiness League believes in and upholds that beautiful doctrine upon which our church was founded.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

The Ministerial Association consists of those who are called by God into His ministry, and whose hearts' desire is to spread holiness "over these lands."

PARTHENIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

The Literary Societies have as their goal higher standards of appreciation in the fields of art, literature, and music. The programs are presented in such a manner as to provide a variety of types of entertainment, such as dramatics, debating, speaking, and instrumental and vocal music.

OCTAVIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

Another goal of these societies is to help each student develop a well-integrated personality. Since the social aspect of one's life is being stressed in this age, these societies are attempting to provide training in this field by having its members to plan and produce programs.

ATHLETIC CLUB

The Athletic Club has proven a source of great enjoyment and healthful recreation; its slogan is "always on the job."

WAITRESSES

You may wonder what part such a group can play in the making of a DARDA. Mr. Cook and his force have done their part in an admirable manner by maintaining excellent standards of dining hall etiquette, cleanliness, and courtesy.

THE D A R D A S T A F F

The DARDA Staff this year is composed of a very excellent group of students whose instructors commend them very highly in both deportment and scholarship. Their time spent in the preparation of this volume is without remuneration. Whatever success they may have in the production of this annual is a result of their own ingenuity, initiative, and untiring efforts, rather than by direct aid from the faculty.

D O R M I T O R Y   L I F E

The derivation of dormitory is the Latin verb, domire, to sleep. But dormitories are anything but sleeping places. All that goes on at home, and more too, happens in the dormitories; sleeping is a minor event. Some think that dormitory life is fascinating; others dread it as a formidable foe.

Dormitory life has many attractive features: deans, radios, bugs, pests, bells, cold water, voice lessons, rules, and borrowers.

To the prospective new student dormitory life is alluring; to the graduate it is repugnant. The new student pictures an ideal place: his own room; a cozy retreat; a studious corner; thoughtful neighbors; in fact, a place of comfort and pleasure. The old student, having undergone all the upsets, is eager for a change.

A broadening and integrating feature of dormitory life is the prodigious variety of personalities. Opinions from infra-conservatives to ultra-progressives; sermons from narrow-minded cranks and instigations from revolutionists who advocate the abolition of all rules, serve a very influential purpose. Yes, one will leave the dormitory with all kinds of perverted ideas.

It is according to the policy that the dean pursues in dealing with boys whether he is a popular fixture or the synonym for "detective." Determined footsteps down the hall at 10:15 are apprehended as the approach of the dean; coffee pots, hot plates, and bologna scuttle under the bed; lights go off; a knock brings forth the dull, sleepy reply, "Who is t-h-e-r-e?" Monday night, Tuesday night, no interruptions by the dean; Wednesday night we shall have a feed—but the uninvited policeman raids our room, saying, "Boys, get to your rooms."

Another admirable feature of dormitory life is the innumerable interruptions by the "pest." Oh, yes, all dormitories have a pest. He bounds into your room at all hours: "Where's Bill?" or "What y' doin'?" or "I wanta 'borrie' some hair oil." He disturbs your studying, your sleeping, and your eating; he examines everything on your dresser, in your dresser, and under your dresser; he either sets up an inquisition or establishes a bureau of advice! At every knock you learn to answer, "What d'ya' want now?"

Feeds and radios mix well; in fact, they make a good "concoction." The dean, promenading in his pajamas, says, "Umph, I smell somebody's goin' to stay up all night." True, delicious odors permeate the halls: coffee, sausage, and burnt toast. To the poor outcast who "hasn't a nickel," and who has finished his grits and sauerkraut, the aromas bring on despondency.

Besides the wrestling above you, radios down the hall, and voice lessons on all sides, you have the singular privilege of being a delegate to the bathroom convention. Here, in high-pitched voices, all controversies over theology, politics, liberalism, radicalism, and pretty girls are reopened, promoted, and settled. Or, if you desire, you may have the rare opportunity of soothing your troubled spirits by means of the melodies from the bathroom quartette. In fact, the components of this rare group themselves present an amusing sight, for how can lather, comb, razor, and toothbrush portray anything but a queer spectacle? Again, the bathroom seems to offer an excellent studio for all voice lessons; maybe it is because of the acoustics, for certainly no amplifiers are needed!

Including bells, oafs, and music with the above facts, I have concluded that the name of dormitory should be changed to "Bug House"!
