OFFICIAL STUDENT PUBLICATION OF TREVECCA NAZARENE COLLEGE

Volume 26, Number 5

Nashville, Tennessee

December, 5, 1969

Regional Accreditation Granted

At the annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Trevecca Nazarene College was received into membership of the association and was given full accreditation.

The accreditation announcement was received by Dr. Mark R. Moore, President, and Dr. Stanton P. Parry, Dean of the College, at Dallas, Texas on December 3, 1969, at 2:37 p.m. Upon their return to Nashville a large delegation of approximately 300 jubilant students, faculty, and alumni met them at the airport.

Dr. Moore announced that "this was perhaps the most momentous day in the history of the college". He continued, however, that this was only a beginning, "We can be a great Christian liberal arts college given the resources. Accreditation gives us momentum to achieve the destiny we believe is ours." Parry as Academic Dean announced that classes would not be held the following day.

Trevecca was one of only five senior colleges accepted into the association of 519 members. Moore stated that after four years TNC would have to make another self-study for the Accreditation Association.

The receipt of accreditation culminates a deliberate effort of the college since 1963 to achieve this goal. Such names as Childers, Greathouse, Gresham, and Mackey lead the long list of those who helped prepare for accreditation.

"Santa's Workshop" Christmas Party Theme

The Annual Christmas party, given by the Freshman class will be tomorrow in the Physical Education Center at 7:00. The theme of this year's party will be "A Visit to Santa's Workshop." Each person will be the guest of Santa and his elves (Freshman class members) and will be entertained by a live band. Various skits and a night of real enjoyment is planned. Tickets may be secured in the cafeteria or from any freshman class officer.

Numerous Councils Taking Definite Actions

Several changes have taken place this quarter which have affected the lives of most or all of the student body. These changes have come about through actions taken by the Administrative, Academic, and Student Life Councils.

The main thing that the Administrative Council has done thus far was to set up a priority system by which class and club sponsors may be chosen. The first to be able to choose their sponsors are the Student Council and Trevecca's two publications, the Trev-Echos and the Darda. Second will be the Sophomore,

Soloists Diana Ross and Dianne Murphree rehearse for tonight's presentation of Amahl and the Night Visitors.

Enterprises Contribute Funds For Trevecca Economy

Mr. Ed Null of the L. C. Tiller Company was presented Trevecca's PRESIDENT'S CLUB AWARD on Monday, November 3. Mr. Null was cited for contributions ($3000-$4000) to Trevecca's economy made by his company in recent months. These contributions were in the forms of discounts given on instrumental purchases. The largest of these contributions was the discount on the new Conn organ in the Fine Arts auditorium. The award plaque was presented in Mr. Null's office by Fred A. Mund, Acting Head of the Department of Fine Arts. The PRESIDENT'S CLUB AWARD is presented to persons who have made contributions of over $1000 to Trevecca.

On November 13, 1969, Mr. Adam Orgera, local representative of the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, presented to Mrs. Lyla Markey, Librarian, and Dr. Mark R. Moore, President of Trevecca Nazarene College, a check in the amount of $750.00 to be used in the purchase of library books.

Trevecca Nazarene College, along with 949 other accredited two and four year private colleges, have received $1.5 million in unrestricted gifts from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation. Gifts in the Nashville area total $15,050.

In addition to its grant programs, the Sears Foundation will invest more than $700,000 during the current year in various financial aid and other educational programs. This will bring higher education expenditures by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation to more than $2,225,000 in 1969.

The Senior Class is planning to hold its Senior Class Retreat on January 16-18 in Gatlinburg, Tennessee. They will be staying at the River Terrace Hotel while in Gatlinburg. On the way to the retreat, they will be stopping in Knoxville to see Trevecca play Johnson Bible College on January 16. Saturday, the 17th, is a free day for the Seniors. During this day, they may go sightseeing, skiing, or ice skating. The night of the 17th, the class will come together to eat dinner and to hear the speaker for the evening. Sunday, they will have their own church service in the hotel and return to Trevecca on Sunday afternoon.

To help finance this retreat and other projects planned for this year, the Senior Class is sponsoring a candy sale of gift-boxed gourmet candies. The sale will start the week of November 10th, and the candy will sell for $1.00 per box.

lege Young Democrats. They also passed the revised Freshman Class constitution and granted permission to the Senior Class to use the Physical Education Center for the Thanksgiving Banquet. Along with this permission, they also stated their policy on future use of the gymnasium. They said that if any banquet was to be held in the gymnasium, it would have to be a school-wide banquet and not conflict with any academic or athletic program of the school.

"Amahl & The Night Visitors"—Christmas Presentation Tonight

The opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors," written by Gian-Carlo Menotti, will be presented tonight, at 8:00 p.m. in McClurkan Memorial Auditorium.

Professor Barbara McClain will direct the cast which consists of vocal majors in the Trevecca College Department of Fine Arts.

Principal characters are: Amahl, a crippled boy played by Diana Ross; Amahl's mother, played by Dianne Murphree; Three Kings, played by Dave Pangle, Jordan Conger and Phillip Bowles; a Page played by Ernest Lewis. The cast also includes several shepherds.

Musical background is to be furnished by a small choral ensemble featuring two-piano accompaniment of Professor McClain and Professor Baerg. Professor Janaway will design settings and costumes.

The one-act opera was written for television and was given for the first time on December 24, 1957 on the NBC-TV Opera Theatre in New York City.

There will be no admission cost for the featured event.

Forum Providing New Communication Channel

"It is a dialogue between students, administration, and faculty which provides better understanding of and acts as a clearinghouse to direct misunderstandings, complaints, or new ideas to proper committees." This is the Student-Faculty Forum as explained by Charles Davis, Student Body President.

Those attending the monthly meeting held on Wednesday, November 19, were President Mark Moore with his four key assistants, Director of Public Relations, Dean of Students, Dean of the College, and Business Manager. Also present were the four class presidents and two representatives elected by the Student Council, Leroy Pepper and Jordy Conger.

Many questions were brought up for discussion at this meeting: "What can be done about the trash scattered on the grounds around the dumpsite

STUDENT RATES RISE

As of October 1, 1969, the fares on almost all airlines went up approximately 6%. Of course, this varies from airline to airline.

Mr. Bruce Wells, of Eastern Airlines, says that before October 1st, student rates were 66.66% of regular adult fare. Now, this has increased to 75%, or one-fourth discount with space confirmed.

The District Sales Manager of American Airlines, Mr. Robert Nobles, said that their standby rates increased from 50 to 60%. However, there is only a two to five dollar difference, and

An Open Letter To The Administration

Have you noticed? The Christmas spirit is beginning to prevail on the Trevecca Campus. So likewise we of the Trev-Echoes have caught a little glimmer of that spirit also.

As the end of the first 69-70 quarter approaches we would like to direct a word of "thanks" and "appreciation" to the administrators of Trevecca College. Despite the fact that many students believe Trevecca is still regressing, some definite improvements have been noted during the first quarter. For the most part, you, the college administrator, have taken a keener interest and concern for student morale and opinions. In most colleges and universities, at least in this writers opinion, administrative understanding and respect for students is rarely achieved, but Trevecca is at least approaching this.

The effects of the Fall Leadership Conference are just now becoming fruitful. At this meeting in which all aspects of student life were discussed, the frank exchange of ideas are now evolving into new college policies. For instance—curfew hours have been extended, new phones and phone policies have initiated, more lenient policies are in effect for both men's and women's dormitory units. The college administration has acknowledged an awareness of the many problems existing with the food services. Students should also realize that with three freshman deans, experience will bring a better functioning and cooperative unit.

If this has not convinced most that some words of thanks are necessary at this point, then take a careful look at the academic atmosphere of this college. An outstanding faculty has been molded this year, forty-eight per cent with their doctorates. The college Dean and academic committees are continually initiating new policies to provide a much needed true collegiate academic atmosphere. This has been represented as true by the reality of a much broader curriculum.

The Public Relations department, despite many varied opinions, is putting new emphasis on student recruitment. The switch back to the VIP senior days and the addition of the Encounters should result in a healthy enrollment for the coming year.

But for a while let us turn to a problem that concerns students above all else—the problem of accreditation. When this editorial was written there was no way to know the answer to the big question—find the answers on the front page. All that can be said is that the President and his co-workers have done all within their capabilities to provide the school with an efficient academic program and a much needed stronger financial base. The remaining portion of this year will determine how fruitful their efforts have been.

For now we say thanks to the college administrators—they have done a respectable job for the advancement of Trevecca. Not all questions are answered and not all problems are solved, but let us continue an endeavoring spirit to seek the solution to the existing problems.

mostly on long hauls. Example: from Nashville to New York, student fare is only three dollars more.

The reason for the rise in rates is that many airlines were having financial difficulties. The Civil Aeronautics Board has authorized the increase to help the airlines. However, according to Mr. Nobles, the airlines have to apply to the CAB before using increased rates. Mr. Nobles said that their rates are still comparable to transportation services on land, especially after adding magazines and meals to train or bus travel.

According to Mr. Wells, not only student and youth fares went up, but there was also a general increase in adult fare, first class, tourist, military, family plan, and excursion fares.

Mr. Don Shepherd, City Sales Manager of Southern Airways, stated that since Southern is a short haul, small stop airline, the CAB decision will not affect them much. Southern's increase should only be a few cents to a dollar.

TROJAN HORSE SENSE

By John Teter

Give a Little, Receive a Lot.

"I can hardly wait till Christmas break so I can be home." "I am dying to see what I will get for Christmas." These are common thoughts as Christmas draws near. Thoughts of home and seeing families and friends again. Thoughts of what to expect for Christmas. Thoughts of what to get for that special friend or sweetheart.

Everyone is aware of the old adage that it is more blessed to give than to receive and most agree that this is true. It is rewarding to see the look of surprise or pleasure on a person's face when they open the gift we gave them. Shopping and deciding what to give everyone is a big part of the Christmas season and adds much to our enjoyment at this time of year.

Perhaps this year, though, we ought to expand our little to include many more in our giving. Surprisingly enough some can be done at no extra cost. Include an extra smile or word of cheer for the stranger you pass in shopping. Go out of your way to be friendly with some shut-in or hospital patient you may know of.

Other extras may cost but should be considered also. Drop a little extra in the collection for needy families or children's homes. Find a way to help some needy person in your area and you will find your Christmas season to be more meaningful.

This is the season when the Christians have one of their best chances to show concern and love for their fellowman. Take advantage of it. Give of yourself this Christmas season and you may be surprised by the change it will make in your life.

Oh yes, one more addition for your Christmas list, Trevecca Nazarene College. No, this is not a plea for money, but one to give of yourself to TNC also. When you talk about TNC to your friends and families, report the good things instead of the gripes. Tell about some of the new faculty who have added much to our programs. Tell about the new buildings and the improvements they make to classes and physical activities.

Talk about the ball team and the school spirit it has helped to create. Talk about some of the changes in policy that have been good instead of finding some to gripe about. Give TNC the benefit of a positive approach as your Christmas gift to her and her leaders and let's see what happens because of it.

Give of yourself this year. Go home from the hill and look for a way to be of service to the world around you, then when you return to start the new quarter life may have deeper meaning and you may be able to approach it with a more positive attitude.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

"Singing in the rain" was the theme song of Trevecca and Belmont fans alike. That is, if they could find anything to sing about when it came to the parking situation last Tuesday night at the basketball. For Trevecca students, it probably didn't come as such a big surprise to see the visitor's parking lot roped off with "No Parking" signs, because we at Trevecca are getting used to the fact that students aren't "that" important when it comes to situations along this line.

I was told that this parking area was being reserved for Belmont people, but the ones that arrived early were instructed to park a block away with the rest of the fans. I wonder if these people from Belmont questioned the fact that Trevecca is an institution of higher learning when they see a whole line of empty parking spaces in front of the gym while they are sent to the back parking lot, which necessitates their trudging through water and mud.

It's about time that our basketball games are handled for what they are—well-paid-for activities by visitor and student alike. Let's not forget that the student pays his way as much, if not more, than the visiting customer. I don't believe students should get special treatment, but they shouldn't get second best either.

I've been to a number of games at other colleges, and they were always handled "first come, first served." Never before have I ever seen where it was "first come, worst served."

This letter is not meant to criticize Security, because I believe they were only following instructions given them.

Let's hope the one who gave these instructions will have the intelligence to realize how ridiculous the parking situation was; if so, it will be a pleasant surprise.

Sincerely,
Ernie Lewis

Councils Take Action

A more recent action taken by the Student Life Council concerns dorm hours. Closing time on Saturday nights has been extended to 12:00 p.m. for everyone. Regular week-night hours have been extended to 11:30 p.m. for boys (other than freshmen, whose hours remain the same).

The most significant action taken by the Academic Council was concerning quiet hours and study hours. This Council, which has Phil Bowles as its student representative, agreed that most hours of most days of the week should be quiet hours in order that anyone wishing to study may do so, but they also felt the necessity to specify a definite quiet time. Therefore, the hours from 7:00 p.m. until 9:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday, have been designated as quiet hours. Study hours are those hours from 7:00 p.m. until 9:00 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays. All freshmen and all students on academic probation are required to observe these study hours.

The Student Life Council, on which Jordan Conger represents the student body, has made a number of changes and recommendations to be considered by other councils. Among these changes are the opening of the gym on Monday nights for sophomores, juniors, and seniors not on academic or social probation and the continuance of telephone service during church hours. This means that telephones will no longer be turned off during worship service hours. One of the recommendations made by the Council and sent to the Academic Council concerned study hours. They have recommended that freshmen making a 3.0 grade point average one quarter not be required to observe study hours the following quarter. This request has not yet been passed.

The Old And The New

It was a most rewarding experience to visit the Bible Lands. To feel that you could walk where Jesus walked gave you a sense of reverence. There the old and the new stood side by side. One sees within the shadows of the ruins of yesterday the new modern buildings of Israel. The throb of a nation which rises out of the desert almost overnight is powerful. Many another civilization like the one now forming has made its proud boast there and left only the stones to testify of its once sparkling grandeur. Along the streets, as modern as you will see anywhere in the world, will speed an automobile of the very latest make and model. It will pass a donkey loaded with produce as its kind has been for centuries. A girl soldier walks by smartly dressed and filled with selfconfidence. She strides past a woman dressed much as they have for two thousand years carrying a large bundle of sticks or a pot of water on her head.

One cannot help but reflect. Here are people who have lived in this land for hundreds of years and kept pretty much to their traditional ways against every attempt of change. They seem to like it this way. The government in a gallant step to bring them up-to-date has given them comfortable buildings. But they have lived in tents too long. We saw numbers of them with their tents pitched beside their new home. They allowed their animals to occupy the house while they stayed in their tents. In one field you could see the most modern tractor working away. Not far from it was a Bedouin plowing with a camel. He could have the advantage of the new but he prefers the tried and old.

How will these two groups ever make it? Hundreds of Arabs have chosen to stay and live where their families have from the long forgotten past. They will never take up the new ways of the ambitious Israeli who already have a thousand acres of fertile fields to show for the barren lands they once claimed. These nomads will continue to drive their little flocks across these new cultivated fields and down the streets of these proud new cities. These usurpers want and plan for the best. These long inhabitants plan in the night the ways in which they will keep their homes and fields. And much of it they will. It was pointed out to us that much of the territory occupied in the six day's war will eventually be returned. For there are now nearly as many Arabs as Israeli living in Israel and the occupied areas. If the boundaries stay as they are now in less than ten years of time the Arabs will outnumber the Israeli and if given citizenship will be able to outvote them.

There are terrorists; many of them, but they are a very small part of the large, patient group of Arabs who want only to be left alone. They will not flee and cannot fight. They stubbornly resist the measures to bring them into the modern world, and I think time is on their side. If the Israelis don't give them and their land back to Jordan or Syria they will become a block so large as to outnumber and outvote the "builders of a new nation" with an ancient name.

On whose side is God? Well, can we say it is the Intruder? Do we want to say it is the resister of progress? Or, is He on the side of the moderate who says there is enough room for both and we can profit by each other's values? The drive for a place in the sun can be tempered by the patience of the years. The new can lift the old if it will listen to what the ages say to hours. Its proud building of the latest architecture, bright and gleaming in the sun will join the many ruins which point back thousands of years if His voice is not heard who once walked there and counseled, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things will be added unto you."

Choralaires Conduct Yuletide Concert

The Choralaires, one of Trevecca's choral groups, will be performing at the Apollo Junior High School here in Nashville, on December 8, 1969. The group performed at the school last year during the Christmas season and was asked to return. They are under the direction of Professor Fred Mund.

The program consists of: "Glory to God in the Highest,"

by Thompson; "Do your hear what I hear", arrangement by Simeone; "Joy to the World", arrangement by Kuykendall (featuring the brass ensemble accompaniment); "Quadrinet" or "Jingle Bells, Deck the Halls, and Good King Wenceslaus," arranged by Howard.

The Choralaire women will be performing "Gesu Bambin," featuring male soloist Dave Pangle.

This year why not enjoy a creative Christmas? Surprise your family by making your house look festive this holiday season, launch a coordinated decorating scheme. Let each key room do its part in creating cheer. Once you've decided on the colors and materials you would like to use, experiment until you develop an assortment of interesting variations. The finished designs will look related, yet each will be unique.

Some of the themes that might be used are a flurry of stars, flowers, and snowflakes or angels and choir boys. Start with the front door by covering it with a huge wreath that is shaped like a snowflake. Be sure and put up a special Christmas mailbox for all those Christmas cards that will be pouring in during the holidays. In the living room put up a huge Christmas tree that you and your family cut down. Decorate it completely with homemade ornaments. Use materials like: corrugated cardboard, thin aluminum, silver balls, gold cord, sequins, fringe, bells, felt cutouts, tiny pine cones, seeds, macaroni, and a host of other inexpensive items. Under the tree put gifts wrapped in your own creative gift paper. Start with plain white shelf paper. Cut a potato in two and cut a design on each potato. Then dip the potato into tempera paint and make blots on the shelf paper. Lemons dipped in paint also make nice design for wrapping paper. If you really want to go creative this year, make your gifts. Knit a vest or sweater. Sew up some creative hot mitts and embroidered apron sets. For little children in your family make a stuffed animal or some little terry cloth puppets. Other gifts that just take scissors and a little glue are desk mats, bur-lap bookends, lingerie-hose bags and place mats.

The Encounters will leave Nashville on Friday, December 12 for their Christmas tour which will include stops in North and South Carolina as well as in Tennessee.

ENCOUNTERS CONVEY MESSAGE THROUGH CONTEMPORARY SOUND

"Young World is the Now Generation" is a line from one of the numbers performed by the Encounters. The "now" sound of the Encounters directed primarily at youth echoed in Kankakee, Illinois and Mt. Vernon, Ohio this past week as the P.R. group presented their versatile program at two of Trevecca's sister colleges.

On Sunday morning the "Encounter Sound," as it has become branded, filled the College Church on the Olivet campus and then travelled 600 miles by Sunday night to the Mt. Vernon First Church in Ohio to present a complete concert.

The next morning the Encounters and a force of public relations representatives took their presentation into the Mt. Vernon Nazarene Junior College Chapel in hopes of recruiting some of the 150 sophomores who will soon be choosing a senior college.

As the Encounters headed back for Nashville several TNC representatives stayed to recruit and interview prospective students with their free brochures, catalogues, 45 rpm records and the lingering impact of the "Encounter Sound plus . . ."

Honor Society Holds Induction

The Honor Society held its first annual induction program on Thursday, December 4 during the Student Council assembly hour.

The program was conducted by Ted Hill, President. Four short speeches were given by present Honor Society members. These speeches emphasized the four major areas of the Honor Society. They were: scholarship, leadership, service, and character.

Following these speeches, the present members went into the audience to tap the new members who then followed them to the platform to be inducted. The new members were presented to the audience by Dr. Parry, Academic Dean. The following people were inducted for the 1969-1970 academic year: Janice Baker, Paul Berry, Esther Carey, Sharon Cronise, Jane Davis, Nancy Jones, Leslie Lovestead, Marie Rhoden, Melba Stewart, Euleta Sweeney, and Sammy Wood.

Ted Hill concluded the program with a challenge to the student body.

behind Wise Hall?" "What can be done to make EOG students feel an obligation to work, whatever the job given them?" "Is it fair to require student teachers to be on a full meal plan?" "What caused students to misunderstand the closing of scrimmages by the Inter-Collegiate Board?"

Although the forum is only a communication system and can not act as a legislative body, results of these meetings are felt on campus. For example, Davis states that something is to be done about the dumpster situation right away. In addition, the question of full meal tickets for student teachers has been referred to the finance committee for further study and evaluation. New ideas are being developed so that they might be put into action.

TNC Student Named CAP Chairman

S/M Henry Delbert Glenn, a Trevecca student, has been named chairman of the Nashville Cadet Squadron Civil Air Patrol's 28th Anniversary Planning Committee.

On December first the Nashville Squadron joined more than 2,300 CAP units throughout the United States in observing the founding of the CAP.

The Civil Air Patrol is an all-volunteer force. Among its contributions are: 1) conducting air search and rescue efforts, 2) providing aerospace education and experience to selected youth, 3) promoting international goodwill and understanding, and 4) establishing and maintaining a reliable communications network.

Trevecca Trojans Split Olivet Tournament

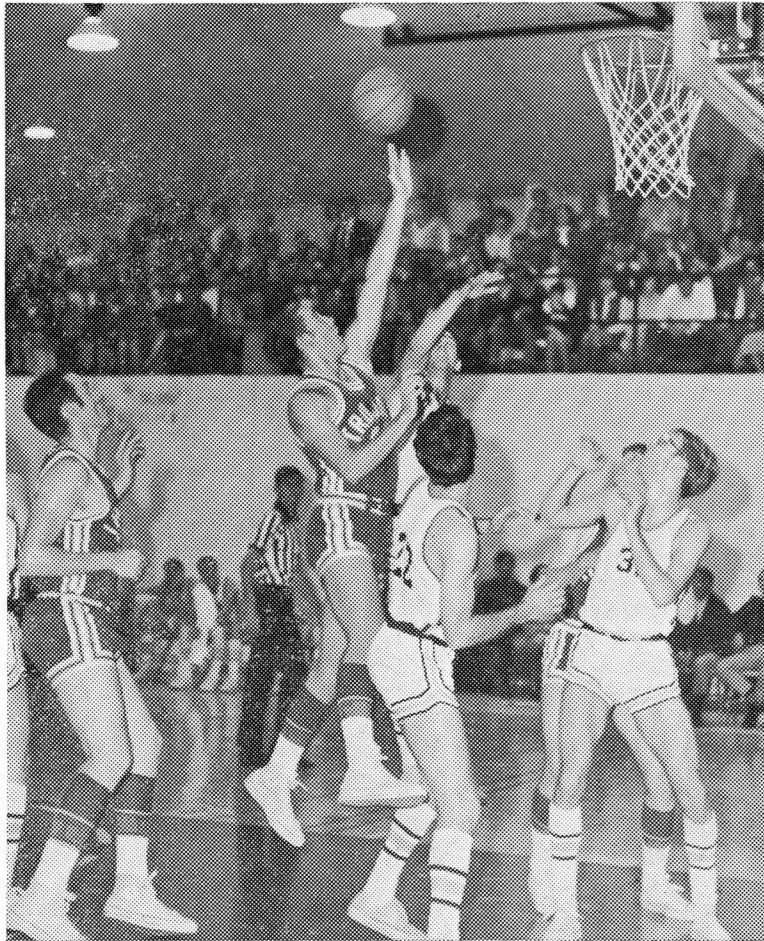

On Friday, Nov. 21, the Trojans of TNC journeyed to take on the Olivet Tigers in the first Olivet Nazarene College Invitational Tournament. The Trojans just couldn't make their game plan work in a game which saw Olivet set a scoring record of 118 to 82 for the Trojans. As Assistant Coach Bill Green said, "The Tigers were able to beat us to the punch—that is, they put our own game plan into effect before we were able to gather momentum." In addition, the Olivet five simply outclassed the Trojans in all aspects of the game, from the first tip-off to the final horn.

The Tigers used the full court press to face repeated turnovers and hinder the running ability of the Trojans. The Tigers' height advantage of nearly 2 inches per man gave them the advantage on the boards and in shooting from the outside. The first half closed with a score of 47-34 in favor of the Tigers and with Trojan fans looking forward to a better second half.

Despite the fact that Charles Torain scored 16 points in the second half, the Olivet Tigers had it all over the Trojans in experience and this made the difference as the Trojans only hit 30% from the floor to 70% for the Tigers. As compared to two returning lettermen for the Trojans and a team which is entirely freshmen except for Mike Sexton and Clyde Spencer, the Tigers of Olivet sported 8 returning lettermen and only two freshmen on the entire team. Coach Green stated, "We have nothing to be ashamed of in losing to this team. They are favored to win the NAIA championship for their conference and are given good chance of winning the national NAIA championship in Kansas City this coming spring."

Despite a disappointing loss on Friday, Trojan fans were able to rejoice on Saturday as the Trojans put it all together to defeat the Victors of the Grand Rapids School of Bible and Music by a score of 100 to 57. Coach Boner put a new starting five on the floor consisting of Charles Torain at center, Mike Sexton at forward, Clyde Spencer at forward, Nelson Ridley in one of the guard spots and William Hassel at the other guard position. This turned out to be the winning combination as the Trojans quickly went ahead 10-2 in the first two minutes and never trailed throughout the remainder of the game. The first half closed with the Trojans ahead 51-30. The Trojans came back the second half under the gunning of Tim Kemp and Charles Torain to win 100-57.

Trojan forward Gary Bedwell takes the rebound in for two points at Trevecca's first Homecoming game against Atlanta Christian College. The game resulted in a 120-74 victory for the Trojans.

Deltas Takes Championship in Society Gridiron

Compiling a record of three wins, one loss, and one tie, the Delta society won the 1969-70 football championship.

Strength and speed characterize the Deltas this year. With Jim (Ponco) Ponce, Glen Latham, Don Guesman, and Steve Mills stabilizing the Delta defense, the opposing teams found that yardage was hard to come by. Undoubtedly the key to the Delta offense was their fleet-footed end, Dickey Pinner. Pinner caught more touchdown passes than anyone else this season. The Deltas also received fine performances from Milton Holliday, Danny Jones, Rick Soloky, and Don Lockhart.

The Betas finished second with a two win, one loss, and three tie record. Under the direction of Rich (Vince) Reitano, the Betas fielded a second-place team that was a pre-season pick to finish last. Desire and team spirit best sum up the Beta team. The main problem the Betas faced this year was the ability to score. In at least three of their games they had more yardage rushing and first downs, yet they could not score. It is hard to pick stand-out players from the Beta squad, for their team was perhaps the most balanced of the four. However we can mention such players as Alan Massengile, Bob Newton, Chuck Chambers, Ernie Lewis, and Frank Ruckman. These men did much to help the Betas finish as high as they did.

The wheel never seemed to get rolling for the Alphas this year. They placed third with two wins, two losses, and two ties. No one really knows what happened to the Alphas this season. Ricci Lynn, Preston Ponce, Kenny Davis, Al Boatman, and David Patterson all played fine ball for the Alphas. With only ten players, it is rather hard to win football games, as the Gammas will heartily agree. The Gammas had a hard-hitting team, but they had no depth. One game found them with only nine players. With a few more reserve players, the Gammas might have been a top contender for the championship. Gamma stars include Fred Huff, Alan Thompson, Phil Pennington, and Dennis Snodgrass.

Rebels Race By Trojans

The Trojans, beaten by Belmont 97-79, won the tug-a-war between the schools junior classes. The reverse was true in the game however. Trevecca battled Belmont on even terms for the first 10 minutes before the Rebels 6'7" sophomore went to work underneath. At the half it was in Belmonts favor 36-25.

Trevecca never could stop the Rebels in the second half as they moved out to a 15 point lead only to have it cut back to ten when four minutes were left.

The Trojan full court press was very effective, but their defense had trouble hold the Rebels down in the closing minutes of the game.

Belmont was led by Dale Alsup's 25 points, while freshman Bobby Tuggle added 18. Trevecca's high scorer was Tim Kemp with 17 points. Charles Torain added 13 and Gary Bedwell chipped in 10. Butch Baker had nine and was outstanding in the closing minutes.
