SENIORS HOST PEABODY MADRIGALIANS

Erickson Gives Itinerary Of Summer Tour Group

Dave Erickson, Field Secretary, has just released for publication the schedule of the two groups that will tour the zone this summer as representatives of the college.

The Trevedores Quartet, which consists of Jim Knight, Jim Hender-shot, Paul Johnson, Phil Thrasher, and Carl Taylor, with Rev. Erickson will sing at every youth camp in the Southeastern Educational Zone. These are twelve in number. They will also perform at two District Assemblies, and approximately thirty churches. Dr. Greathouse and Rev. Bill Anderson will represent Trevecca at the other District Assemblies.

An outstanding highlight of the quartet tour will be representing the college at four alumni chapter meetings in the Florida district. Something new, these meetings will consist of time of information and inspiration for the alumni of Trevecca. Each chapter has a president and other officers.

A new group composed of the Men's Glee Club Trumpet Trio (Tom Adams, Cecil Cook, and Bobby Sutton), Larry Sherman, and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Smith will visit every Boys' and Girls' camp and every Junior High Camp on the zone. Beside visiting fifteen camps, the T.N.C. Gospel Team, as this new group is called, will appear at fifty local churches.

This will be the first time in the history of Trevecca Nazarene College that the traveling groups have concentrated in Boys' and Girls' Camps. It is hoped that, by the time the youth on the zone have heard about T.N.C. at the Boys' and Girls' Camps, Junior High Camps, and Youth Camps, there will be no question in their minds where they will go to college—Trevecca.

The purpose of sending out groups for the summer include making contacts, breaking down prejudice, answering questions, soliciting interest, evoking financial support, and winning some patrons who will become future donors to the college; projecting the Trevecca image as an institution of higher learning with a keen spiritual emphasis through the lives of directors and the college students; and being an inspirational blessing to the church, zone, or camp represented in the service.

The activities of the two groups include singing; presentation of the College, Booster's Club, and literature; selling records, giving testimonies, and the delivering of a gospel message on Sunday morning. The program is built on a foundation of inspiration with no financial pressure.

Unlike times past, the groups will be in local churches, not in areas conducting District activities. This has been arranged to cut down any conflict that might arise.

Approved Staff Changes Listed

Arrangements were completed at the April 27-28 meeting of the Board of Trustees for the following changes in or additions of official personnel, to serve Trevecca Nazarene College during the next academic year.

Prof. E. Drell Allen will become Dean of Student Life, while he continues in his present role of Director of Admissions.

Rev. David Erickson, who has served ably in the current year on a part-time basis, will be Director of Field Services, devoting full time to this important responsibility.

Dr. Trafton F. Williams will become Director of Testing and Counseling, while developing a separate Department of Psychology.

Prof. M. E. Redford, long-time member of the faculty and author of The Rise of the Church of the Nazarene, will serve as College Archivist, assembling and organizing materials for a history of Trevecca Nazarene College and of the Church of the Nazarene in the Southeast.

Going on leave for 1965-66 will be Dr. F. Franklyn Wise, Professor of

Known around the world for their skillful interpretation of all styles of music from classic madrigals to spirituals, such as "Every Time I Feel the Spirit," the Peabody Madrigalians were guests of the State Department on a Far Eastern Tour last year.

Tonight at 8:00 p.m., the Senior Class will present the Madrigalians of Peabody College in a concert in the Fine Arts Auditorium. Last year the group represented the United States on a twelve-week good-will tour of the Far East under the auspices of the U.S. Department of State.

The Madrigalians were one of six college groups chosen by the State Department to appear abroad in 1964 under its Cultural Presentations Program. The only college group from the South and believed to be the first chosen from this area under the program, the singers included many songs collected and arranged by Southerners in their concerts.

The singers, who traditionally sit about a table to perform, appeared at colleges and universities and some secondary schools, as well as at embassies and consulates. They carried a part of America's musical heritage to their counterparts in the Orient. Their itinerary included Japan, Korea, Hong Kong, and Taiwan.

They were chosen because of their artistic excellence and their ability to be ambassadors. Lewis Clark, retired foreign service officer, accompanied the fifteen-member group.

Dr. Irving Wolfe, Peabody professor of music, is the director and will sing with the group. He founded the Madrigalians in 1940 and was director under whom the invitation to sing abroad came. Dr. Robert Bays was the director on the tour.

One of the major pleasures the group anticipated on their trip was meeting hundreds of Peabody alumni in the countries they visited, especially in Korea, where the college conducted a six-year teacher education project under the Agency for International Development, and in Taiwan, where Peabody librarians have served in special capacities.

In their repertoire of approximately eighty-five songs, they include: (1) choral arrangements of American folk music, including fugu-tune tunes from England, Negro and white spirituals, work songs, ballads, songs of the Old West and play party songs; (2) the choral repertoire sung by American college groups, especially chamber organizations, such as madrigals of England and Italy and selected works from such composers as Britten, Hindemith, and Kodaly, and (3) choral compositions by leading contemporary American composers, such as Randall Thompson, William Schuman, Robert Sanders and William Bergsma.

Members of the Madrigalians are First Soprano—Judith Carman of Mayfield, Ky., Mary Warren of Donelson, Tenn.; Second Soprano—Diane Jamison of Waverly, Tenn., Janet McGannis of Shelbyville, Ky.; Alto—Judith Taylor of Kentucky, Juanita Thomas of Athens, Ala.; Tenor—Dinnye Van Arsdale of Greenville, Ky., Donnie Adams of Waldren, Ark.; Bass—Dr. Earl Wolfe, director, James Laster, Nashville, and Dave Stutzenburger of Louisville, Ky.

1965 BOOSTER'S CLUB BEGINS; BUILDING PLANS PRESENTED

Rev. William H. Anderson, Assistant to the President in charge of Publicity and Public Relations, has recently announced two important actions undertaken by his office. These include the plans for the 1965-66 Booster's Club and the construction of a new Religion and Life Resources Center to be undertaken in the near future.

The recruitment of 1965-66 Booster's Club members began the first part of April. This year's bonuses include a new 1965 decal, a devotional book, a one year's subscription to the Trev-Echoes, the student publication, and the Messenger, the official school publication.

The decal is blue lettering on a white background. It includes the words "Member T.N.C. Booster Club—1965," and the seal of the college. The devotional book is by Dr. William M. Greathouse, president of the college. It will be mailed out as soon as it is off the press, which will be in about thirty to sixty days. Not for public sale, the only way a person can get a copy will be to join the Booster's Club.

Last year the response was very good. Over two thousand people around the world joined the club. This year it is hoped that the membership will be nearer the goal of ten thousand members. The minimum membership fee is five dollars. Last year many gave ten, twenty-five, and fifty dollars for the fee. It is expected that there will be more people in this category. All the money from the membership fee goes into scholarship funds for students.

The Religion and Life Resources Center will be an all-purpose building. The basement will contain a band room, lecture rooms, shower and locker areas, first aid stations, and a swimming pool. The main level will house the auditorium-chapel, offices, and the gymnasium. The upper level will be a balcony with a projection-lighting booth.

The full-size basketball floor is elevated from the auditorium floor permitting the viewing of the action from the one thousand-two hundred fifty seats of the auditorium. In addition, the gym level is complete with a five hundred-twenty eight spectator capacity bleacher section.

The Religion and Life Resources Building (above) will be a valuable asset to college life. To be constructed between Tidwell Hall and H. H. Wise Hall, the new men's dormitory now nearing completion, this multi-purpose building will face Lester Avenue.

Chapel Is Vital

Without chapel service Trevecca College would rapidly degenerate to a secular institution. Chapel is as important in our college lives as are our studies and our extra curricular activities.

Students often complain about having to attend chapel every day. Many arguments are presented such as "It takes away from my study time," or "I just get tired of going every single day." Still the student is REQUIRED to attend chapel every day.

When students complain to faculty members about this problem, they are often confronted with an answer such as "You, as a Christian, should count it a privilege to attend chapel. You should look forward to this hour of spiritual blessing. Surely you can set aside ONE HOUR out of your day for religious activity." This argument is quite sound and very well founded. There is one very apparent weakness, however. The Faculty as a whole does not adhere to this policy.

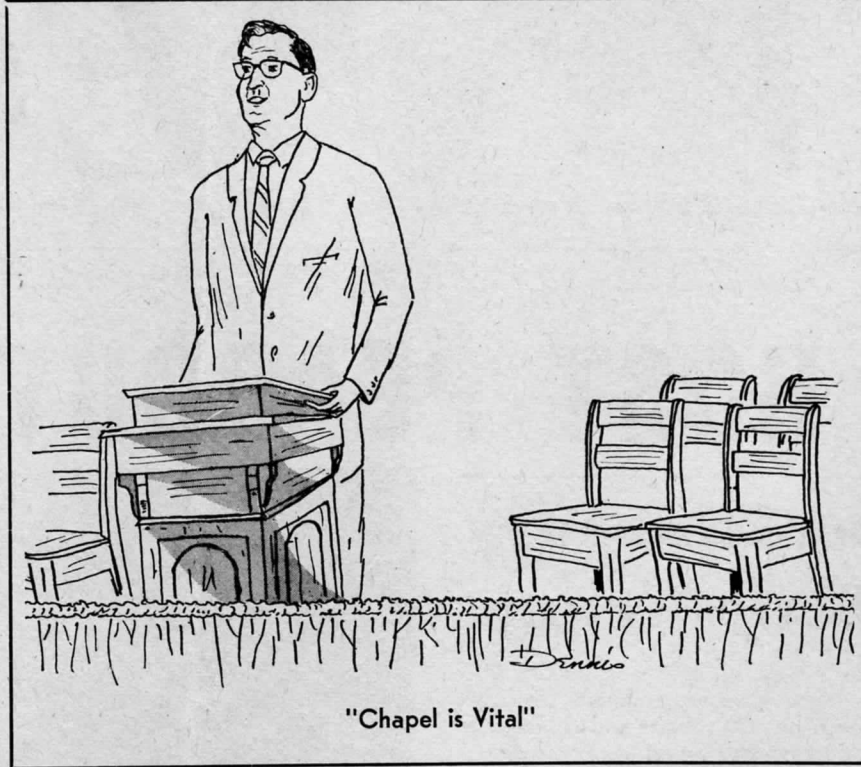

Very noticeable during the recent revival was the absence of many faculty members. During one of the services only ten faculty members were present. This is less than one-third of our total number of teachers and staff members.

Students are very much disturbed at this apparent lack of concern in chapel services on the part of our faculty. One student questioned, "Why do they tell us we should want to attend chapel, and then not come themselves?"

The natural tendency of a young person is to follow the examples set by adults. If our administration wants to encourage regular chapel attendance, then it should begin with the faculty and work downward. Adults do not need to be required to attend chapel. They need only to be made aware of their responsibility as examples for the student body.

Sometimes it is necessary that teachers, administrators, and faculty be absent from chapel. But whenever possible, each faculty member should join with the students during the one hour of our busy day that we set aside for worship.

"Chapel is Vital"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Students:
"Good Medicine for a sick church is a dose of Mission."

You may be a good church goer who feels a need of a spiritual hypodermic. You may not have sinned, but the once keen edge of your experience is slowly being dulled. Your prayers are dead and your devotions are dull. "Missions" is the answer.

Remember Job? When all was against him, he prayed for others and the burden lifted. (Job 42:10). For Job to get to this place, he had to remove all thoughts of self and self-interest. Many Christians are living a defensive life. We need offensive Christians in this day. Learn to pray for others who live in sin. Pray for those missionaries you know, and who are in dangerous places. Have your prayers bombarded through to heaven lately? Take your Other Sheep and your Bible and go to your secret closet and intercede for souls and for our missionaries.

No longer will you be spiritually anemic. You will find new life and an aggressiveness sent from God, and a new love for sinners. You will become a lighthouse in this sinful world. Your daily devotions will become precious times of refreshing for the day's needs. You will find a divine love for souls and a push in your soul to tell the world that "Jesus Saves."

We are glad for a school which holds missions high and a church that has not lost the vision of world evangelism.

The Trevecca Missionary Fellowship to give to all her members and to every student who prayed, worked, and supported missions this year, a big thank you. We, as the T.M.F., wish to be a blessing to our school and to keep lifting missions high until Jesus comes.

Pray with us as we choose our officers for the new year.

—Don Crigger

Dear Editor,

As most of you know, cleanliness is considered to go hand in hand with godliness. Those who watch the life of a person, who wears the name of Christ, expect to see an example of a clean heart by the person's life, his looks, and the way he keeps his property.

Let us, therefore, consider this thought in regard to our school. All throughout the year there are visitors on the campus, some of them Christians and some of them sinners. They look at our campus as a symbol of what our school stands for. Therefore, we who unite to make Trevecca what She is, should work together to keep the campus as clean as possible.

Our business manager endeavors to keep the buildings painted, lawn trimmed, and shrubs, flowers and trees growing, but we, as a big, cooperative family at Trevecca have a responsibility to cooperate with him in keeping our campus looking its best.

By JOHN RITTER ROBILETTE JR.

(Editor's Note: This article was printed by special permission from Voice On The Right.)

In many areas of thought and action, the basic rights and wrongs of Western civilization have been blurred beyond distinction. In this country, we are witnessing the progressive collapse of our fundamental beliefs and institutions.

Religion, patriotism, ethics and honor, those superficial, and reactionary ideas, which are so ridiculed by this generation and which animated the birth of our country, are slowly eroding and vanishing from our midst. It must be acknowledged, however, that the blame for this heinous crime lies not merely with permissive parents of the mid-twentieth century, but also in our classrooms and finest academies.

The cynics and non-believers—sometimes disguised as college professors—have succeeded in selling the American youth those great agnostic superstitions such as: there are no absolute truths, everything is relative, freedom is an intangible abstraction that might very well be a myth, man is nothing but matter in motion with no trans-historical religious value and can be molded and manipulated by his environment and certain material inducements; and finally the paralyzing stigma of left wing foreign policy—peace at any price (compromise if you can, surrender if necessary).

We find ourselves less enamored with the Declaration of Independence than with a "Declaration of Interdependence on the World." We embrace the idea that nationalism is outmoded, and thus our intellectual desire for humanitarianism leads us to a world organization controlled by an Afro-Asian bloc of temperamental communist.

We are little concerned and even less warned about the evils of coercion and collectivism because we are told "the country is big and complicated, and you have to have a big and complicated government to run it." And thus the bleak destiny of every American citizen is reduced to the prospect of being a regimented pawn in a paternalistic cradle-to-grave society.

We find atheism blooming as never before, and, along with the intoxicating fragrance of its stark materialism, the rise of the ultralogicist philosophy, namely that man and his intellect can conquer all, irrespective and independent of a God.

Isn't it an extra-ordinarily inopportune time in American history for the youth of this country to seriously question the tried and tested principles of our American heritage and give way to a brand of atheistic secularism when we are currently confronted with an enemy who is trying to demoralize us from within and smother us from without?

We find socialism is considered respectable on our college campuses, yet Jeffersonian conservatism is indoctrination and even extremism.

We are told that monopolies are anathema, and particularly those fostered by big business, yet they shouldn't drive us to paranoid frenzy for we have an equally monopolistic government that will rush them; that the Constitution of the United States is flexible enough to justify whatever scheme catches the fancy of a Keynesian economist.

One could go on and on, listing the insanities and pseudo-certitudes of "modern-day liberalism," yet the great tragedy of this sordid conglomeration is that the average American citizen is not aware that his bloodstream is being constantly, yet surreptitiously infiltrated with the toxins of left-wing "yahooism."

Are You Aware . . . ?

How aware are you of the world around you?

If you're like most of us, you'll read this question, snap "Very much aware, thank you!" and go back to your novel or ping-pong game with a feeling of triumphant smugness. After all, you do read the newspapers (parts of them, at least), you do listen to the news broadcasts (when you're not too exhausted after a day in classes), you do take note of what's going on in your college, your community, your state (some of it anyway).

Well, this smug feeling is just what you don't want to have. Awareness, the knowledgeable kind, the kind that sees surface—and depth, effect—and cause, solution—and problem, is all too rare in the world today. Sadly, too, because never has the need for it been greater.

We are faced with questions, the like of which it would have been impossible to even dream up a hundred, fifty, even ten years ago. Questions which are tremendously difficult—yet if our civilization is to survive, answers must be found to them. And there is no lack of people with answers, answers varied as the sources from whence they come.

This is why awareness is so important. We are besieged by words and ideas on all sides—who are we to believe, whose plans should we follow, where, really, does truth lie? Only if we have knowledge, only if we are aware, can we find the right answers, make the right decisions.

To relate the problem of awareness more directly to the Trevecca student I would like to ask, "How aware are you of what's going on at Trevecca?" In the recent campus election it was brought to my attention that many students were not acquainted with the candidates on the ballot and as a result were unable to vote intelligently. As a college student with a responsibility to vote, you should have enough concern for student government to acquaint yourselves with the candidates for major offices, consider their qualifications and experience, and then vote for the student you feel most qualified for the position. If you are not aware of activities and events on campus you will not be aware of the important events in the world apart from college—for the skills, habits, and abilities you develop in college will be guiding factors in your future.

You are free—free to be knowledgeable, or free to be ignorant. The path you choose will have a vital effect on your life and on your world. As a Christian student your influence will be broadened if you are knowledgeable and well informed. Begin today to wake up to the world around you!

—RJC

Accreditation A Reality?

Under the leadership of President Greathouse, Trevecca Nazarene College is rapidly approaching accreditation. Four major areas of our college life are being emphasized in our movement toward accreditation.

SPIRITUAL EMPHASIS, of course, is our unique and primary responsibility as a Christian college. Although many other Christian institutions have drifted away from the daily chapel service, Trevecca still devotes one hour per day to worship. There are still three revivals (one each quarter) conducted during the academic year. In addition, Dr. Greathouse recently completed one full week of speaking in chapel with emphasis on the book of Romans, which contains a summation of the doctrines of sin and grace.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE has been stressed throughout the 1964-65 term. The addition of several new faculty members, together with diligent work by the established faculty members, has brought about a trend toward intellectual enthusiasm. Next year promises stiffer academic policies, a new business administration department, and several new professors, a good percentage in possession of their doctorates.

SOCIAL MATURITY through association with other Christian students enables the student to prepare himself for the problems he will face at the completion of his college career. Under the heading of social maturity come physical development and cultural appreciation. Both of these areas are included in the expansion program.

NEW CONSTRUCTION is necessary to meet the growing demands of students throughout our zone. Two new dormitories will be completed by next fall to cope with anticipated over-crowded conditions. The multi-purpose building (see Page 1) will meet the needs for the increasing interest in physical development.

All these developments are being undertaken with accreditation in mind. Dr. Greathouse emphasizes, however, that accreditation is not our primary goal. His desire is "to prepare the student who attends Trevecca in the best possible way for his task in life—to fulfill the will of God."

I NEVER PROMISED YOU A ROSE GARDEN

In this best seller, Hannah Green draws the reader into the life of a sixteen-year-old psychotic, Deborah Blau.

Deborah is plagued by the magnetic force which pulls her into an imaginary world of horrid torment and glorious pleasures as punishments and rewards.

As the world of gods penetrate their desires to this teenager, the reader can more fully realize the inner struggle of such a patient as he reaches for a stronghold to truth and self.

Enter this strange world and see how Deborah, with the guidance of an understanding psychiatrist, makes a comeback to the world of reality.

Class Procedure Typical At TNC??

By SHARON CALLIHAN

The bell has rung and the muted roar of approximately forty voices dies down to a mild rumble. Someone leads in prayer, and afterward some immediately begin to write, and some are doing last minute studying for another class. The roll is called and students use this time to primp, to tuck in stray shirttails, etc. Assignments are made to the students, while some are making their own private plans. Many eyes, roam over the room, searching for specific people or items or just looking.

When a chance to participate in class discussion is given, a few individuals monopolize the discussion by giving autobiographies and dissertations. Young preachers even find this an excellent opportunity for practicing sermon delivery. Other class members are absorbed in more interesting activities, such as the latest gossip on so-and-so, how to get this candy wrapper off, and studying for that one o'clock test.

The professor begins his lecture, and this is the signal for students to settle down and read, talk, write, sleep, or listen. Sometimes there is a murmur of voices and an occasional crackle of paper. Someone drops a pencil. Cavorous yawns are unstified. Eighty eyes look at one hundred different things, and forty minds are thinking of forty different things. When the lecture is finished and the professor sits down, there is a unified sigh of relief.

The closing bell is decorated with a mumble of voices and clatter as students gather up their books. Coats and scarves are waved in the air. The door squeaks as someone sneaks out early. Others start lining up at the door, and as the professor makes last-minute comments, they are off at top speed for the cafeteria. So ends another class period. The professor drops into his seat with a pale face and a long sigh.

Of course, this couldn't happen at Trevecca.

JUNIOR MARSHALS SELECTED

Each year two members of the junior class, a male and a female are chosen to be the "Junior Marshals," who lead the senior class into the auditorium for Commencement. These juniors are chosen on the standpoint of grade average; they must have the highest grade average in their class.

Miss Dovie Conner and Mr. Jim Knight will serve as the Junior Marshals this June 8, Commencement date for the graduating class of 1965.

Miss Conner, from Catlettsburg, Kentucky, is an English Major and an Education minor, and has a 2.62 grade average. Her college activities include: Christian Workers' Association, the East Kentucky Club, and typist and Literary Editor of this year's Darda.

Mr. Knight, better known as "J. K.," is the president-elect of the Student Body for 1965-66. While achieving his 2.57 grade average, he has participated in such activities as president of TAA during his sophomore year, a member of A Cappella Choir, Rambler's Club, and Honor Society. A member of the Treva-dores Quartet, Jim is an English major and an Education-Psychology minor. He is currently serving as student body vice-president.

LOOK WHAT THEY WENT AND DID! Being out in front has been the traditional thing for this year's Senior Class. This includes being the first class or club to complete their school project.

Costing three hundred dollars, the directory is constructed of extruded aluminum. The background is black leather. The lettering is removable. It will list the members of the administration, faculty members, and the "Darda," "Trev-Echoes," and Stuco offices.

On permanent display in the foyer of the Administration Building on the main floor, it will be a handy reference for students and visitors (and faculty members).

The big question is: Who's Next? Only three more weeks are left for the classes and clubs to complete their project and be counted in the race for the Class and Club of the Year.

Girls' Hair Styles Stolen-By Guys??

By SHARON CALLIHAN

"There goes a beetle!"

"Tell him he needs a hair cut!"

"Oh, how silly!"

"Ugh!"

These comments, heard frequently when the males of our human race began to allow their locks to grow a wee bit long, have now changed to:

"He's really sharp!"

"Now, I like it just that long."

"I'm glad boys are letting their hair grow now—I hate crew cuts!"

Soon, encouraged by a certain foreign singing group, boys all over were swept in a rushing fad of thick hair-cuts that often stop just at the collar in the back and just above the eyes in the front. The main trend is to part it on the side and the hair isn't so casually fixed as it looks. Boys are rumored to use as many hair "beauty aids" as we girls have monopolized for years.

For years we complained that the appearances of males never changed, but no one is able to say that now. If someone says you look the same as ever, fellow, he really means you are behind the times!

There are also rumors indicating that boys use such methods—many stolen from girls' collections—as hair spray, hair rinse, dandruff shampoos, curlers, various types of brushes, combs, and home permanent waves. The actual hair cutting operation no longer seems to consist of a mere sweep of the barber's razor, but is now a complicated procedure taking over an hour and up to $20.00!

Barbers who keep up with the modern demand of their customers gather collections of process of styling men's hair that equal a musician's repertoire.

The hair styles range from mild "Princetons," "The Surfer Look," "The Rocker Look," to "The Beetle."

"Show offs!"

"Very ungroomed."

"Sissy-fed!"

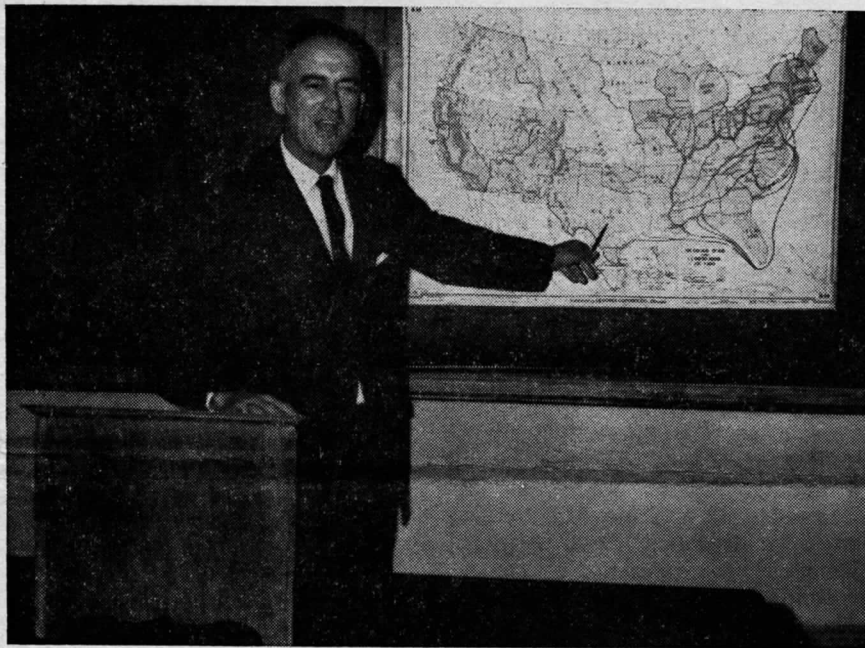

"I like it!"

"I don't like it."

"The hoods!"

"Aaach!"

"If you can still see their ears, it's okay!"

"Old Pro" Dr. Adams Still Loves To Teach

By RUTH McDOWELL

One of the most versatile and active members of our faculty at Trevecca is Dr. Homer Adams, a man who "would rather teach history than eat when I'm hungry." An alumnus of TNC, he is divisional chairman of the History Department. He holds both the Master's Degree and the Ph.D. from George Peabody College in Nashville.

Dr. Adams began teaching high school at Trevecca in 1948 and was principal for four years. In 1954 he started teaching in the college full time, holding the position of Dean of Arts and Science from 1954 to 1964.

Dr. Adams is sponsor of the Senior Class and the Clio Society, two of the most active organizations on campus. During his in-between hours he manages to read the equivalent of three books a week. His hobbies are fishing, flowers, really, anything outdoors—and, of course, books. He has personally brought many varieties of plant life to our campus. At present there are 65 different shrubs and trees on the campus. Dr. Adams' goal is for Trevecca to have the greatest variety of plants of any college in the U.S.

A man who truly lives his subject, Dr. Adams seeks to "encourage creative and critical thinking" in his students, to arouse "curiosity about the world." His special interest is in illustrations and anecdotes in the teaching of history.

He has tried his hand at writing everything from whimsical poetry to advice for fishermen. More notably he has written a number of articles for the Conquest and the Herald. Lately he has become interested in research in Nazarene Church History.

He and his wife, Beatrice, have two children: Jimmy, 10, and Sara, 5.

Thinking toward graduation, Dr. Adams admits that it often "hurts the faculty more than it does the seniors to see them leave the halls of ivy."

NCEC WILL AID FROSH

The Nashville Collegiate Exchange Council has made plans to aid in the orientation of all Nashville college freshman next fall. At its final meeting of the 1964-65 school year, NCEC voted to publish an all-college pamphlet which will familiarize incoming students with the Nashville college community. Another useful item for college students next year will be a all-college calendar which NCEC should have ready by fall quarter of the 1965-66 term.

Officers for next year were elected at the meeting. Joe Brewer, a junior at Vanderbilt University, was re-elected as president. Dick Bailey, junior at Trevecca Nazarene College, was elected publicity chairman. Leah Snyder, freshman from Vanderbilt University will be the new secretary, and Barbara Roberts, a sophomore at Fisk University was named treasurer.

The Nashville Collegiate Exchange Council is planning an all out effort next year toward unifying our Nashville Colleges. The first for '65-'66 will be held on October 1.

Christian Education since 1957 and Dean of Student Life since 1962. Dr. Wise has given devoted and energetic service during this considerable length of time. He will return to the campus in the summer of 1966.

Rev. William W. Jernigan, regretfully on the part of his colleagues, has been released at his request from the employ of the College to accept a most challenging position as head librarian of a large, modern new university in the middle west.

Serving as part-time or occasional consultants to the College staff for the ensuing year will be Dr. L. Paul Gresham, in general administration, and Dr. Stanley P. Parry in institutional research and planning.

Club ECHOES

by Sharon Hall

C.W.A.

Hats off to those who have contributed their prayers, money, time, and talents this year in the various phases of C.W.A. As a result of your interest many have been introduced to Christ. Many have been encouraged to have a new lease on life and to face reality in society.

Many have attended faithfully the various works. Without these our work would, perhaps, have failed. Those in the corrective departments, hospitals, rest homes, street services, and other works have appreciated the contributions made by Trevecca students.

Maybe you have not attended any C.W.A. services this year or perhaps you were unable to attend. If this includes you and you are able to attend—offer your services to the captains and they will be glad to use you.

Some of our departments need help now. Now is not too late to start.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Freshman, the quarter is drawing to a close. It is the last time this year you will have a chance to pay your class dues. Ruth urges each Freshman to pay his dues as soon as possible.

Since each class has a project, the Freshman class needs your dues to make their project a success. If you as a freshman want to be proud of your class, please co-operate and get to work.

The Chocolate Sale is coming to a close, but there are still some chocolate bars left. Freshman get busy and sell these remaining bars. The class will be able to have a better project only if each member of the class will help pay his dues, as well as sell the chocolates.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

There is to be a Sophomore class picnic Saturday afternoon, May 29. All members are urged to come and participate in this time of fun and fellowship. If anyone is interested in helping with preparation of this picnic, he should see Sharon Patten. She would especially like to hear from anyone who would provide some entertainment.

A program sponsored by the Sophomore class to be presented Friday, May 22, is being planned by Kay Frey.

The end of this school year is near and we need money to take care of all of our financial obligations. Please pay your class dues immediately!

JUNIOR CLASS

On May 29, the Juniors will be honoring the Senior Class with the annual Jr.-Sr. banquet. Junior class members are excitedly working on the plans for a night of wonderful entertainment and fun. All Seniors have a warm invitation to attend as our honored guests. Tickets will be $2.75 per person for others who attend.

Juniors, your dues are essential to make our banquet successful, so see Sara Hill today and pay.

To buy your Trevecca stationery, see any Junior class member. Sold for only $1.00, each packet contains 25 sheets bearing our emblem, 25 white sheets, and 25 envelopes.

Bev Moore urges all Juniors to pay dues, sell stationery, and work for the banquet so that the closing days of our Junior year will be very successful.

TREBLE-TONE CHOIR

We of the Treble-Tone Choir are looking forward to one more program before the end of school. The last Sunday before graduation, we will be singing at College Hill Church.

Plans are still underway for the party which will be coming up soon. The date for this party is May 22nd.

Since the Treble-Tones have worked hard for the concert these past few weeks, we are being rewarded with a few days vacation.

A CAPPELLA CHOIR

If you were to see the calendar of an A Cappella Choir member, it would look something like this:

May 2—Sunday morning—Service in Gallatin, Tennessee. (We had a wonderful Spirit-filled service. Many received help and a new unity was felt by the choir. The church provided a delicious meal, served under the trees in a church member's yard.)
Sunday Evening — Service at Nashville First Church

May 5—Tuesday evening—recorded Forrest McCullough's "Flight F-I-N-A-L" aided by Treble Tone Choir and Men's Glee Club.

Map 8—Participated in Spring Concert.

May 22—Saturday—Travel to Tifton, Georgia, for an Inspiration Invasion. (Our last one for this year.)

KAPPA SIGMA PHI

The Kappa Sigma Phi is thinking of sponsoring a student literary magazine this coming year. This publication would be published either yearly or quarterly according to student participation and would be composed of short stories, dramatic works, essays, narrative sketches, poems, and art work as produced by the students. These would be compiled and sold to the entire student body at a very modest price. We would like to emphasize that this publication would not be a money-making effort, but would be a service of the Kappa Sigma Phi to the student body with the intended goal that it would promote among the students an increased interest and participation in the creative arts.

If you enjoy writing or drawing, we would like to encourage you to be thinking of contributions that you might make to this publication and possibly begin work on these during the summer vacation.

SCIENCE CLUB

The Science Club will be leaving this afternoon at 5:45 for a field trip to Oak Ridge. Fifteen students will be participating in this trip. Tonight we will stay in cabins at Cumberland Mountain State Park.

The tour of Oak Ridge begins tomorrow morning and will include The American Museum of Atomic Energy, the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, a film, some demonstrations, and a look at different types of atomic reactors.

This tour will be the highlight of the year for the Science Club, and those members participating are looking forward to having an enjoyable trip and learning something at the same time. We will be back on campus about 8:15 tomorrow night.

STUDENT LEADERS ATTEND CONFAB

Four student body officers for 1965-66 and two faculty sponsors attended the second annual Nazarene Student Leadership Conference held at Olivet Nazarene College, May 4-6, 1965. Those attending were Jim Knight, Phil Thrasher, Kathy Newton, and Mary Blume. Dr. F. Franklin Wise and Professor E. Drell Allen represented the faculty.

Tuesday night, May 4, 1965, the conference opened with a banquet in honor of the ones who were attending the conference. Dr. Willis Snowbarger, new Executive Secretary of the Department of Education of the Church of the Nazarene, and Dr. Reed, president of Olivet Nazarene College, spoke. Following the banquet, the group from the Nazarene Theological Seminary presented papers on the general topic: "Defining Christian Leadership on a Nazarene College Campus." A panel discussion followed.

Wednesday's activities included the presentation of four more papers and small general discussion groups. The papers and members presenting them were: "Christian Leadership and Student Government" by Paul Blaney of Eastern Nazarene College; "Christian Leadership and Campus Religious Activities" by Jim Knight of Trevecca Nazarene College; "Christian Leadership Through Scholastic Development" by Steve Reed of Pasadena College. That night the student representatives went to the College church for a concert by the Olivet band. Following the concert they were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Reed at an informal reception at the president's home.

Business matters took up the activities for the Thursday meeting. Officers elected for the 1965-66 term are Fletcher Tink of Eastern, president; Ron Lush of the seminary, treasurer; and the secretary is to be elected at a later date. Trevecca Nazarene College was selected by unanimous vote to be the site of the next leadership conference.

Comments concerning the meeting were varied. Jim Knight thought that it was very profitable. "Much was gained as far as relations between Trevecca and her sister colleges. We have many problems that are similar. We endeavored to improve our respective campuses through the sharing of ideas," he said.

The editors and business managers-elect, discuss plans for next year's school publications. They are (l. to r.): Janice Milby, Ellen Philips, Annetta Ostenton, and Dick Bailey.

STUDENTS PLAN NEXT YEAR'S PUBLICATIONS

The banners and posters are gone. The slogans and promises have died down. For the Darda, Trevecca's yearbook, and TREV-ECHOES the period of transition is about to begin. Wednesday, May 5, was election day for the major offices of Trevecca's student publications. Included on the ballot were candidates for editor and business manager of both the annual and newspaper. The winners, elected by approximately seventy-five percent of the student body, were announced in chapel, Thursday, May 6.

Dick Bailey, a junior from Charlotte, North Carolina will head the TREV-ECHOES staff for the second consecutive year. Managing the business staff will be Annetta Ostenton, a freshman from Ashland, Kentucky.

Guiding the Darda from the drawing board to reality will be Jan Milby as editor and Ellen Phillips as business manager. Jan is a sophomore and her home is Greensburg, Kentucky. Ellen, a Nashville girl, is a freshman this year.

Following on the heels of the election, the selection of the staffs for both the Darda and TREV-ECHOES was the next item of business. Mr. Bailey has chosen Nancy Carter as executive editor, Karen Lee Dean as associate editor, Gene Dunaway, managing editor, and Joyce Gordon, editorial editor. Gary Streit and Sharon Hall will continue as editors of the activity page and Ruth McDowell will serve as feature editor. Carl Taylor has been re-appointed as sports editor and Marla Moore will join the staff as copy editor.

Miss Milby is now in the process of choosing her assistants. She is selecting her staff in the light of what she holds as her goal for the Darda—"To give Trevecca the most collegiate yearbook possible."

BILL WADE TO SPEAK FOR ALL-SPORTS BANQUET

Betas Maintain 2½ Game Edge

By JAN FORMAN

The Betas have used some strong pitching and an improved infield over last year to lead the league with a 6-1 record. One reason for their expected success this year has been their clutch playing. Several games have found them behind in the late innings to clutch the win. A mark of a good team is the ability to come from behind and the Betas have done this all year.

The Beta pitching staff has been mainly responsible for their record this year. Paul Johnson did the pitching last year and found it hard to do without any help. This year the team picked up Cal Milam and Henry Horton. Milam has a 2-0 record and Horton is 3-1. Both rely on fast balls and good control. Johnson has a good fast ball and has come up with a curve this year. He currently holds a 1-0 record.

Catching for the Betas is Jim Knight. Knight should be given some of the credit for the team's record as he is a good handler of the pitches. He is a hustler behind the plate and keeps the team alive with his chatter. He is hitting a lousy .345 which places him third in the league.

Alternating at first base have been Johnson and Horton when they aren't pitching. Both cover the base well. At second is Larry Knight. Knight has demonstrated his ability to cover the bag here, and has a fairly good arm. He teams up with Claude Nicholas at shortstop to give the Betas the best keystone combination in the league. Larry has proved to be a good clutch batter, as he has won at least two games with his timely hitting. Nicholas hasn't done much hitting, but he has filled in at shortstop as well as any Beta of the past. The Betas sport one of the best infields in the league at third base in Don Webb. There isn't much that he can't do. He has all the moves and his strong arm makes up for any miscue he might make. Webb is also a strong hitter and is currently hitting at a .345 clip. Carl Taylor has held down the left-field position this year. He formerly played at shortstop and plays well wherever he is put.

Cal Milam, Fred Cobbs and Henry Horton have divided their time in centerfield. In rightfield is Jim Tabors. He covers this area well and occasionally comes up with a clutch hit.

Outstanding pitching, smooth infield play, and adequate outfielding, have been the key for the Betas. The improved hitting of Jim Knight has also helped out. They must keep up this playing if they expect to win the championship this year.

A close race is on for the batting championship this season between Wayne Dollar and Lester Byington. Dollar has collected 8 hits in 18 at bats for a .444 average. Byington, batting leader last year, has 11 hits in 27 at bats for a .407 average.

Challenging these two are Jim Knight and Don Webb. Webb started slowly but he raised his average up to .345 on 10 hits in 29 at bat. Knight has also been at bat 29 times and has 10 hits for a .345 average. These two have been the hottest hitters for the last three weeks and could give Byington and Dollar a close run for the title.

Rounding out the top five is David Bays. Bays has 7 hits for 22 at bats to give him a .318 average. Glenn Wheaton has hit for a high average most of the season but recently hit a slump which saw his average fall to .280.

Hitting hasn't been as good this year as in the past because of better defensive play and better pitching. The pitchers this year have been throwing the ball faster and have had better control to go along with their assortment of pitches. It will be interesting to see how well the pitches hold the hitters at bay in the last half of the season.

The big news in TNC Athletics is tomorrow night's All-Sports Banquet. It is our privilege to have as our speaker Bill Wade, quarterback of the Chicago Bears professional football team.

Mr. Wade is a Nashville resident during the off-season. He attended Montgomery Bell Academy from 1943-1948 and Vanderbilt University National Football League Championship. Blessed with a top defensive unit, he made the Bears known for long, steady drives that usually were climaxed with Mr. Wade himself following the big linemen over the final stripe. Every football fan remembers his performance in the championship game.

Everyone loves a champion, and Bill Wade is a champion of champions. To achieve athletic success must be thrilling, but this man was not satisfied with mere physical, human success. In addition to being an outstanding sports personality, he has taken his stand as a Christian athlete. He is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and is in constant demand as a youth speaker. His life is one of true Christian sportsmanship and leadership. He once stated that his most thrilling moment came, not on the football field, but when he made the decision to accept Jesus Christ as his personal Saviour. We are very fortunate to have a man of this caliber to speak to us, because he has not only found success in the world of sports, but he has found the secret to a happy and successful life.

ty from 1948-1952. Naturally, he starred in football at both places. After graduation from Vanderbilt, he played professional football with the Los Angeles Rams for seven years. In 1959, he broke the all-time passing mark of the Rams. He was later traded to the Chicago Bears and he promptly led them to the Other highlights of the annual affair will be the presentation of all three All-Star teams and Most Valuable Player Awards. Also, the captain of each championship team will be presented the trophy for his team. Finally, letters will be awarded to those deserving men and women. TAA President Larry Knight will preside and Paul Johnson and Ann Hawkins are in charge of all arrangements and decorations.

HENDERSHOT BLANKS ALPHAS 15-0; WEBB LEADS TWO BETA VICTORIES

Delta 7 Alpha 4

The Deltas continued their winning ways over the hapless Alphas by defeating them 7-4 in a game played late because of rain.

The Alphas struggled to win and left runners on base all day, but Delta pitcher Jim Hendershot was always able to get out of a tough job. Barney Baggott and Ken Sholter each started an inning-ending double play. Hendershot was the winning pitcher and Byington took the loss.

Delta 15 Alpha 0

The Deltas defeated the Alphas for the second day in a row by a score of 15-0. This is the top number of runs by a team this year and is also the first shut-out game pitched. Jim Hendershot turned the trick with the help of top defensive play.

Forman and Hendershot led the Deltas with two hits apiece. No Alpha collected more than one. The game saw an incredible number of walks. In all, 13 men reached base via the base-on-balls. Lester Byington was the losing hurler.

Betas 8 Alphas 7

The Betas won their fifth game of the season as they edged the Alphas 8-7. The Betas took an early 6-0 lead as they took advantage of Alpha pitching with some solid hits spiced between an error and two walks. Jim Knight, Don Webb, and Henry Horton got the big hits to give the team its commanding lead.

The Alphas came back in the fifth inning to score a run and added six more in the seventh to go ahead 7-6. The big blow for the Alphas was a grand slam homer by Beanie Hickok. It looked like the Alphas were going to pick up their first win. But the Betas came back to score a run in their half of the seventh inning and then won the game in the eighth inning as Carl Taylor walked, stole second and third, and scored the clincher on a hit by Jim Knight. Knight had two hits and Don Webb had three to lead the Beta attack. Paul Johnson picked up the win while Dan Mills took the defeat.

Betas 9 Deltas 3

The Betas took an important win from the Deltas, 9-3. This was a big game for both teams. The Deltas were after a share of the league lead hit. Instead, the Betas padded their lead. The Deltas never were in the game, as they played probably their worst game of the season.

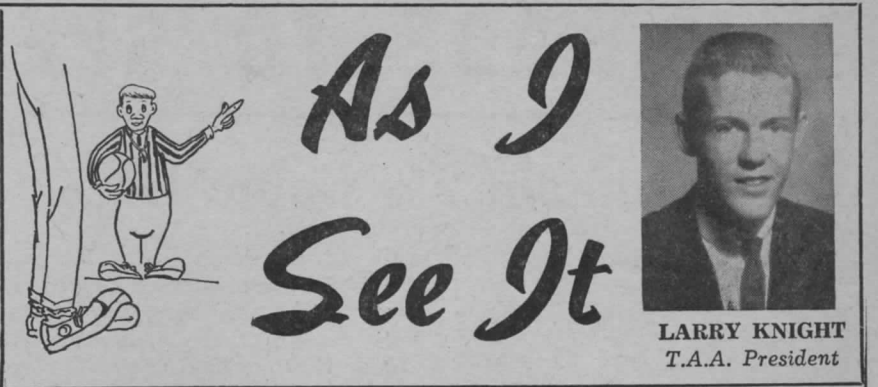

The Betas took an early 4-0 lead as Taylor walked and scored on a single by Jim Knight. Don Webb scored Knight with a hit and then scored himself. Nicholas walked and concluded the scoring on a hit by Cal Milam. The Deltas also scored in the first inning as Jan Forman walked and scored on a single by Wayne Dollar. Dollar scored on an error by the third baseman. The Betas scored 3 in the second inning and wrapped it up with 2 in the fourth. Hendershot took the loss and Horton got the win on a one-hitter.

LARRY KNIGHT
T.A.A. President

Every organization, club, association, or team has someone behind the scenes calling the signals. The Trevecca Athletic Association has been guided well this year by Athletic Director and Professor William Strickland. In working closely with Prof. Strickland this year, I have found that with him patience is a virtue. Always ready and willing to help promote our athletic program, his advice and direction toward a better T.A.A. are much appreciated. Most of you students haven't heard that Mr. Strickland was the first T.A.A. President and that our present society system was set up by him and that he excels in basketball, tennis, golf, and numerous other sports. (Ask Paul Johnson about that tennis match.) Presently Mr. Strickland is working and planning with the T.A.A. council, the addition of a fourth athletic society, and the complete revising of the constitution. He is full of many new ideas for the T.A.A. and is much concerned for each student's recreational activity. Mr. Strickland has done and is doing a superb job as Athletic Director and as the student's friend. Thanks!

The new T.A.A. president will be inaugurated tomorrow night at the All-Sports Banquet.

All fellows who still have football and/or basketball jerseys out, please turn them in. They are not yours to keep and are not yours to wear. If you see someone wearing one or hiding one in a drawer, remind them of their responsibility.

Thanks is due Hollis Kelley who has been doing a fine job in keeping statistics for the softball games. Also, thanks to Greg Rickey, Ronnie Hall, and others who have helped with the umping.
